

Chapter 10: Cell Reproduction

Learning Objectives:

- Describe the structure of prokaryotic and eukaryotic genomes
Prokaryotic: -Haploid -One origin of replication -Only has one chromosome
Eukaryotic: -Diploid -Multiple origins of replication -May have more than one chromosome
- Distinguish between chromosomes, genes, and traits
a gene is a string of DNA that determines a trait, a gene is located on a chromosome
- Describe the mechanisms of chromosome compaction
Chromosome compaction is on the order of several thousand fold, yet these chromosomes have to be unraveled every cell cycle to be replicated accurately and the daughter chromosomes must be topologically unlinked to allow their separation and segregation into the daughter cells.
- Describe the three stages of interphase G1- cell growth, number of organelles increase, amount of cytoplasm increases
S Phase - DNA/chromosomes replicate, identical copies held together by centromeres, identical copies are called sister chromatids, too thin to be visible
G2 - preparation for mitosis, cell makes organelles and substances for upcoming cell division
- Discuss the behavior of chromosomes during karyokinesis/mitosis Karyokinesis is defined as the separation of the chromosomes.
Mitosis has four sequential stages: prophase, metaphase, anaphase, and telophase. In prophase, each chromosome becomes condensed and more visible, and there is the breakdown of the nuclear membrane and appearance of spindle fibers.
- Explain how the cytoplasmic content is divided during cytokinesis
Divides by using the cleavage furrow with the pinching method. This is when the cell's go ahead signal is absent, so the cell exits the cycle and stays in this phase G0
- Define the quiescent G0 phase resting phase is a period in the cell cycle in which cells exist in a quiescent state.
- Understand how the cell cycle is controlled by mechanisms that are both internal and external to the cell
- External: Initiation and inhibition of the cell division are triggered by external events before beginning the the replication process. Triggers include things like death of a nearby cell, release of growth promoting hormones, crowding of cells,
- Internal: To prevent a compromised cell from continuing to divide, there are internal control mechanisms that operate at three main cell cycle checkpoints. A checkpoint is one of several points in the eukaryotic cell cycle at which the progression of a cell to the next stage in the cycle can be halted until

Mathematics Education in a Neocolonial Country: The Case of Papua New Guinea Patricia Paraide, Kay Owens, Charly Muke, Philip Clarkson, Christopher Owens, 2023-01-10. Most education research is undertaken in western developed countries. While some research from developing countries does make it into research journals from time to time, but these articles only emphasize the rarity of research in developing countries. The proposed book is unique in that it will cover education in Papua New Guinea over the millennia. Papua New Guinea's multicultural society with relatively recent contact with Europe and the Middle East provides a cameo of the development of education in a country with both a colonial history and a coup less transition to independence. Discussion will focus on specific areas of mathematics education that have been impacted by policies, research circumstances and other influences with particular emphasis on pressures on education in the last one and half centuries. This volume will be one of the few records of this kind in the education research literature as an in depth record and critique of how school mathematics has been grown in Papua New Guinea from the late 1800s and should be a useful addition to graduate programs mathematics education courses history of mathematics as well as the interdisciplinary fields of cross cultural studies scholarship focusing on globalization and post decolonialism linguistics educational administration and policy technology education teacher education and gender studies.

Emergent Practices and Material Conditions in Learning and Teaching with Technologies Teresa Cerratto Pargman, Isa Jahnke, 2019-03-21 This book explores the complexities of interacting with digital technologies in the everyday flow of practices in schools, museums, and the home. In particular, the authors pay attention to the material conditions of such practices via the exploration of media discourses on information and communication technologies in the classroom, the ongoing digitization of the school, the use of video chat for language learning, the instantiation of CrossActionSpaces in an urban science classroom, the development of symbolic technologies such as the Carbon Footprint Calculator, the design of apps and virtual museums for learning science, the use of text message tools for collaborative learning in teacher education, and the design, implementation, and evaluation of Augmented Reality apps in outdoor learning. The book is grounded in case studies presented by scholars at the workshop Changing Teaching and Learning Practices in Schools with Tablet-Mediated Collaborative Learning: Nordic, European, and International Views and the workshop Emergent Practices and Material Conditions in Tablet-mediated Collaborative Learning and Teaching, both of which have been held at the Computer-Supported Collaborative Learning conference CSCL. This volume brings together inspirational and high-quality chapters that raise a range of important ideas and showcase the importance of looking beyond technology-enhanced learning. Taken together, this volume unpacks a variety of everyday situations by engaging with what is really happening with digital technologies rather than what is expected to happen with them in educational settings. The take-away message is a call for research on learning, teaching, and digital technologies that enables engagement with the materiality of educational practices and, in particular, their constitutive relationships that configure the contemporary educational practices of the digital age.
