Sandage, 2003-05-01 While forgiveness has historically been regarded as a religious concern it has also become a popular topic in contemporary psychology Unfortunately there has been little effort to combine a Christian understanding of forgiveness with psychology The Faces of Forgiveness winner of the Narramore Award from the Christian Association for Psychological Studies steps in to fill this void The authors fuse Christian forgiveness and psychology with the unifying motif of the face thereby building on the considerable psychological research linking emotions related to forgiveness with the human face At a deeper level the face can serve as a metaphor for integrating forgiveness wholeness and salvation The authors argue that forgiveness should take a central role in our understanding of salvation because it is warranted by the Bible and engages our postmodern context Pastors psychologists family counselors and students of psychology and theology will find The Faces of Forgiveness a helpful resource

Kettler, 2017-05-11 Atonement For some this word is the heart of the Christian faith For others it is irrelevant for Christianity and how they live their Christian lives Often we do not see the breadth and depth of the atonement in the gospel Christian D Kettler in his fourth book on the vicarious humanity of Christ suggests that we consider that the atonement is not only a vicarious death in our place and on our behalf whether in the form of a penal substitute or a moral example but also his vicarious humanity having atoning significance for all of our lives indeed all of reality the church the world and the self These essays are collected from several years of Kettler's thought on the doctrine of the vicarious humanity of Christ and its implications for all of life and reality seeking to demonstrate that the doctrine of the atonement is not to be restricted to one small part of the doctrinal agenda but has profound implications that theology sometimes does not explore These issues include the nature of culture aesthetics creation out of nothing spiritual formation emotional weakness the priesthood of Christ and creation genetic engineering and trusting in the ideal self Feasting on the Word: Year C, Volume 2 David L. Tentler, 2015-03-08 Although John Calvin often likened sacramental confession to butchery the Council of Trent declared that for those who approached it worthily it was made easy by its great benefits and consolations Thomas Tentler describes and evaluates the effectiveness of sacramental confession as a functioning institution designed to cause guilt as well as cure guilt seeing it in its proper place as a part of the social fabric of the Middle Ages The author examines the institution of confession in practice as well as in theory providing an analysis of a practical literature whose authors wanted to explain as clearly as they safely could what confessors and penitents had to believe do feel say and intend if sacramental confession were to forgive sins In so doing he recreates the mentality and experience that the Reformers attacked and the Counter Reformers defended Central to his thesis is the contention that Luther Calvin and the Fathers of

Trent regarded religious institutions as the solution to certain social and psychological problems and that an awareness of this attitude is important for an assessment of the significance of confession in late medieval and Reformation Europe
