Financing Long-Term Care in Europe J. Costa-Font, C. Courbage, 2011-11-08 Forecasts predict that those in need of long term care in Europe will double in the next 50 years This book offers a full understanding of the institutional responses and mechanisms in place to finance old age and provides analysis of demand and supply factors underpinning the development of financial instruments to cover long term care in Europe Long-Term Care in Europe Ulrich

Becker, Hans-Joachim Reinhard, 2018-03-05 This book provides a comprehensive overview on the long term care systems in 12 EU member states and Norway Focusing on the legal background and its main principles it includes a comparative analysis which highlights the principal dissimilarities between European long term care benefits but at the same time also a variety of features in common It also discusses the increasingly transnational dimension of long term as a result of migrants returning to their country of origin in old age and the still unsolved legal problem of entitlement to long term care benefits in another EU member state The Routledge Handbook of Social Care Work Around the World Karen

Christensen, Doria Pilling, 2017-12-22 The Routledge Handbook of Social Care Work Around the World provides both a comprehensive and authoritative state of the art review of the current research in this subject It is the first handbook to cover social care work research from around the world including both low and middle income countries as well as high income countries Each of the 22 chapters are written by experts on long term care services particularly for older people and cover key issues and debates based on research evidence on social care work in a specific country They look at perspectives of social care work from the macro level the structural conditions for long term care including demographic challenges and the long term care policy the meso level the level of provider organizations and intermediaries and the micro level views of care workers care users and unpaid informal carers Furthermore they discuss a number of topics central to discussions of care work including marketization personalization policies policy implementation under austerity the provision of social care work whether through public services or private arrangements or mixed types funding the feminization of social care and the new role that technology and robots can play in care work By drawing together leading scholars from around the world this book provides an up to the minute snapshot of current scholarship as well as signposting several fruitful avenues for future research This book is both an invaluable resource for scholars and an indispensable teaching tool for use in the classroom and will be of interest to students academics social workers social policy makers and human service professionals

Long-Term Care in Europe K. Leichsenring, J. Billings, H. Nies, 2013-02-04 Drawing on research across a wide range of European countries this book analyzes the key issues at stake in developing long term care systems for older people in Europe with a focus on progression and improvement for policy and practice The Routledge Handbook of the Economics of Ageing David E. Bloom, Alfonso Sousa-Poza, Uwe Sunde, 2023-08-16 Ageing populations pose some of the foremost global challenges of this century Drawing on an international pool of scholars this cutting edge Handbook surveys the micro macro and institutional aspects of the economics of ageing Structured in seven parts the volume addresses a broad range of themes including health economics labour economics pensions and social security generational accounting wealth inequality and regional perspectives Each chapter combines a succinct overview of the state of current research with a sketch of a promising future research agenda This Handbook will be an essential resource for advanced students researchers and policymakers looking at the economics of ageing across the disciplines of economics demography public policy public health and beyond Chapter 37 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution CC BY 4.0 license

Toward a Just Society Martin Guzman, 2018-08-28 Joseph Stiglitz is one of the world's greatest economists He has made fundamental contributions to economic theory in areas such as inequality the implications of imperfect and asymmetric information and competition and he has been a major figure in policy making a leading public intellectual and a remarkably influential teacher and mentor This collection of essays influenced by Stiglitz's work celebrates his career as a scholar and teacher and his aspiration to put economic knowledge in the service of creating a fairer world Toward a Just Society brings together a range of essays whose breadth reflects how Stiglitz has shaped modern economics The contributions to this volume all penned by high profile authors who have been guided by or collaborated with Stiglitz over the last five decades span microeconomics macroeconomics inequality development law and economics and public policy Touching on many of the central debates and discoveries of the field and providing insights on the directions that academic economics could take in the future Toward a Just Society is an extraordinary celebration of the many paths Stiglitz has opened for economics politics and public life

Golden Aging Maurizio Bussolo, Johannes Koettl, Emily Sinnott, 2015-06-23 Societies across Europe and Central Asia are aging but people are not necessarily living longer This demographic trend caused by a decrease in fertility rather than improved longevity presents both challenges and opportunities for governments the private sector and individuals alike Some of the challenges are well known Output per capita becomes smaller if it is shared with an increasingly larger group of dependent older people At a certain point there may not be sufficient resources to maintain the living standards of this older group especially if rising expenditures on health care long term care and pensions must be financed through the contributions and taxes paid by ever smaller younger age groups Working adults also contribute the most to the pool of savings As the size of this group shrinks savings will decline But these challenges can be transformed into opportunities Consider these examples As longevity increases workers tend to stay in the workforce longer and with the right incentives they will increase their savings Many current workers and perhaps even more in the future will thus not necessarily become dependent once they turn 65 And with slower population growth and smaller young age groups societies will have an opportunity to improve the quality of education and maintain productivity Firms in some countries are already adapting by capitalizing on skills that appreciate with age Cardiovascular diseases account for more than half the difference in life expectancy above age 50 between the region and Western Europe for men and 75 percent of the corresponding difference for women Healthier behavior and health systems focused on preventive care could with no cost increase dramatically reduce this risk These opportunities are not to be missed As populations age public discourse ranges from concerns about economic decline and fiscal sustainability of pensions and health systems to optimism about opportunities for healthier and more productive aging The main contribution of Golden Aging is perhaps to show that demography and its consequences are not fixed Much will depend on how people firms and societies adapt and how policy makers and institutions facilitate their behavioral adjustments The future for Europe and Central Asia does not have to be gray it can be a golden era of healthy active and prosperous aging

Reforms in Long-Term Care Policies in Europe Costanzo Ranci,Emmanuele Pavolini,2012-11-08 Over the last two decades many changes have happened to the social welfare policies of various industrial countries Citizens have seen their pensions unemployment benefits and general healthcare policies shrink as belt tightening measures are enforced But in contrast long term care has seen a general growth in public financing an expansion of beneficiaries and more generally an attempt to define larger social responsibilities and related social rights The aim of this book is to describe and interpret the changes introduced in long term care policies in Western Europe The volume argues that recent reforms have brought about an increasing convergence in LTC policies Most of the new programs have developed a new general approach to long term care based on a better integration of social care and health care The book explores increasing public support given to family care work in the past the family would take care of the elderly or infirm and increasing growth and recognition of a extended social care market by which care has shifted from a moral obligation based on family reciprocity to a paid professional activity A new social care arrangement has therefore been developing in Western countries based on a new mix of family obligations market provision and public support In order to understand such changes this analysis will take into account the social and economical impact of these reforms

Allocating Pensions to Younger People Gregory Ponthiere,2023-03-28 This book takes as a starting point that welfare states in developed societies do not provide systems of social insurance against the risk of an early death In contrast to the way in which economically developed countries provide ways of insuring citizens against other possibilities such as unemployment and disease no such social insurance mechanism exists for early death It aims to demonstrate that despite the impossibility to compensate the victims of a short life once they are identified and despite the impossibility to identify the persons who will be short lived when they are still alive it is nonetheless possible to construct a social insurance against the risk of a short life by means of age based statistical discrimination favouring all young persons Combining philosophical literature with economic analysis the book re examines the ethical foundations of social insurance and proposes a major reform of the welfare state the construction of a social insurance against a short life It shows how such an insurance system could be constructed by partially reversing existing pension systems by offering a period of retirement to all young adults before they start their career Such a reversed pension system would allocate more free time and opportunities to younger members of society before they enter the labour market and hence this system would also improve the lives of the unidentified young persons who will turn out to die prematurely The book discusses the social desirability of this new system as well as its financial feasibility and societal consequences examining how pension allowances paid to young adults may be financed by the work of senior workers As such this book demonstrates how the universal uncertainty about the duration of life can be reconciled with the idea of social justice With an accessible and interdisciplinary approach this book will be of interest to academics working in a range of fields including economics public finance social insurance the economics of ageing and the welfare state economic ethics and political philosophy Long-Term Care Reforms in OECD Countries Cristiano Gori,Jose-Luis Fernandez,Raphael Wittenberg,2016-06-01 Since the early 1990s long term care policies have undergone significant transformations across OECD countries In some countries these changes have responded to the introduction of major policy reforms while in others significant transformations have come about through the accumulation of incremental policy changes The book brings together evidence from over 15 years of care reform to examine changes in long term care systems occurring in OECD countries It discusses and compares key changes in national policies and examines the main successes and failures of recent reforms Finally it suggests possible policy strategies for the future in the sector With contributions from a wide range of experts across OECD countries this book is essential reading for academics researchers and policy makers in the field of long term care policy Health Insurance Ermanno Pitacco,2014-11-04 Health Insurance aims at filling a gap in actuarial literature attempting to solve the frequent misunderstanding in regards to both the purpose and the contents of health insurance products and protection products more generally on the one hand and the relevant actuarial structures on the other In order to cover the basic principles regarding health insurance techniques the first few chapters in this book are mainly devoted to the need for health insurance and a description of insurance products in this area sickness insurance accident insurance critical illness covers income protection long term care insurance health related benefits as riders to life insurance policies An introduction to general actuarial and risk management issues follows Basic actuarial models are presented for sickness insurance and income protection i e disability annuities Several numerical examples help the reader understand the main features of pricing and reserving in the health insurance area A short introduction to actuarial models for long term care insurance products is also provided Advanced undergraduate and graduate students in actuarial sciences graduate students in economics business and finance and professionals and technicians operating in insurance and pension areas will find this book of benefit Research Handbook on Health Care Policy Martin Powell,Tuba I. Agartan,Daniel Béland,2024-04-12 Presenting extensive coverage of key theoretical and policy issues within the field of health care research this forward looking Research Handbook contends that students of health care need to take policy more seriously Handbook of the Economics of Population Aging John Piggott,Alan Woodland,2016-11-21 Handbook of the Economics of Population Aging synthesizes the economic literature on aging and the subjects associated with it including social insurance and healthcare costs both of which are of interest to policymakers and academics These volumes the first of a new subseries in the Handbooks in Economics describe and analyze scholarship created since the inception of serious attention began in the late 1970s including information from general economics journals from various field journals in economics especially but not exclusively those covering labor markets and human resource issues from interdisciplinary social science and life science journals and from papers by economists published in journals associated with gerontology history sociology political science and demography amongst others Dissolves the barriers between policymakers and scholars by presenting comprehensive portraits of social and theoretical issues Synthesizes valuable data on the topic from a variety of journals dating back to the late 1970s in a convenient comprehensive resource Presents diverse perspectives on subjects that can be closely associated with national and regional concerns Offers comprehensive critical reviews and expositions of the essential aspects of the economics of population aging

Sustainably funding a marginal welfare programme Mathew Jonathan Clifford Wills, 2020-03-31 Social care for older people is a non core welfare programme financed by a secondary area of the English state that has suffered significant reductions in spending over the past decade Policymakers recognise that social care has a structural funding problem and there is a broad consensus that an alternative sustainable funding approach is needed to deliver appropriate and equitable levels of social care provision but policymakers have consistently failed to reform how social care is financed This thesis explores why implementing meaningful funding reform has proved to be so difficult and suggests possible paths to more sustainable care funding

Ageing and Effecting Long-term Care in China Sabrina Ching Yuen Luk, Hui Zhang, Peter Pok-Man Yuen, 2021-12-19 Recognizing rapidly ageing population is one key concern faced by cities and the challenge it would present to healthcare system this book looks at ageing in China s population as well as the delivery and financing of long term care LTC in China The book compares key features of long term care insurance LTCI schemes in 15 pilot cities and evaluates the sustainability of various financing models adopted by the cities in the LTCI schemes The book uses an interpretive case study approach to give an in depth look into the LTC models in three pilot cities Qingdao Nantong and Shanghai The three cities represent three different models of financing and delivering LTC To assess how effective the LTC models in these three cities are the book uses five criteria including utilization of medical resources cost equity quality of care and sustainability Also the authors discuss how the financing and delivery of LTC can be improved in China the impact of the 2019 coronavirus COVID 19 pandemic on older adults in need of LTC in the country and the implications of China s LTCI reform for other countries The book will be a useful reference to scholars and policy makers who look at urban ageing and healthcare costs and delivery

Pflegequalität in der ambulanten und stationären Altenpflege Joachim Graf, 2017-11-07 Joachim Graf analysiert anhand einer empirischen Untersuchung wie sich das einrichtungsbezogene Qualitätsmanagement in ambulanten und stationären Pflegeinstitutionen in der deutsch Schweizer Grenzregion im Kontext der jeweils zugrundeliegenden Pflegequalitäts
