The general rule when using utensils is to "work from the outside in" toward the plate.

If you're using more than one spoon, such as a soup spoon and a dessert spoon, the dessert spoon (or teaspoon) can be placed horizontally at the top of the plate.

Make sure plates are far enough apart to provide guests sufficient elbowroom—about 2 feet apart from plate center to plate center.

Not sure which glass to fill with what? The dinner knife will typically point to the water glass and the wine glasses will be slightly more on the outside.

If planning to serve coffee during the dessert course, place the cup and saucer to the right of the setting, with the coffee spoon on the right side of the saucer.

A napkin should go to the left of the flareware as shown here or directly over the dinner plate if decoratively folded or adorned with a ring.

The folded edge of the napkin should point towards the inside of the place setting.

Space all flareware about 5" apart from each other.

To dress up a table setting, place a colorful charger under the dinner plate.

Make sure to always keep the blades of the knives pointing in toward the plate.
