

A detailed historical map of Europe, likely from a 17th-century atlas, serves as the background. The map is rendered in a sepia tone with red ink used for coastlines and major rivers. It includes numerous Latin labels for geographical features, such as 'OCEANUS', 'DEVCAL', 'HIBERNIA', 'Noort zee', 'MARE', and 'BARBARIA'. The map shows the British Isles, the North Sea, and the Mediterranean region.

EU External Relations Law Ramses A Wessel, Joris Larik, 2020-04-02 The first edition of this seminal textbook made a significant impact on the teaching of EU external relations law This new edition retains the hallmarks of that success while providing a fully revised and updated account of this burgeoning field It offers a dual perspective looking at questions from both the EU constitutional law perspective the principles underpinning EU external action the EU's powers and the role of the Court of Justice of the EU and the international law perspective the effect of international law in the EU legal order and the position of the EU in international organisations such as the WTO A number of key substantive policy areas are explored including trade security and defence police and judicial cooperation the environment human rights and development cooperation Taking a text cases and materials approach it allows students to gain a thorough understanding of milestones in the evolution of EU law in this area their judicial interpretation and scholarly appraisal Linking these pieces together through the authors commentary and analysis ensures that students are given the necessary guidance to properly position and digest these materials Lastly each chapter concludes with a section entitled The Big Picture of EU External Relations Law which weaves together the diverse and complex materials into a coherent whole and stimulates critical discussion of the topics covered

EU Law Paul Craig (Law), Gráinne De Búrca, 2020 Building on its unrivalled reputation as the definitive EU law textbook this seventh edition continues to provide clear and insightful analysis of all aspects of European Union law Drawing on their wealth of experience

Paul Craig and Grinne de Branca succeed in bringing together a unique mix of illuminating commentary and well chosen extracts from a wide range of cases legislation and academic publications Chapters have been carefully structured and designed to enhance student learning at all levels laying the foundations of the subject while building analysis of more complex areas and cutting edge debates The seventh edition has been comprehensively updated to reflect the extensive legal developments that have taken place since publication of the sixth edition and a new chapter on current challenges facing the EU has been added

Enforcement Or No Enforcement? Jana Seydel, 2011-07 Master's Thesis from the year 2011 in the subject Law European and International Law Intellectual Properties grade 1.3 Leiden University Europäisches Rechtsinstitut language English abstract This thesis looks at the EU ne bis in idem principle In particular it examines if this principle that no one shall be held liable twice for the same act contains an enforcement requirement Because the ne bis in idem principle is codified in different sources of EU law which all have slightly different wordings a national judge may be confronted with the difficult question as to what provision to apply in a given case The author of this thesis has selected a judgment of a German Court that well illustrates this dilemma and which shows the relevance and topical interest of this problem for which as yet no clear guidance has been provided by the European Court of Justice ECJ In this Boere case a German Court applied the ne bis in idem principle as laid down in Article 54 CISA and concluded that enforcement was an essential element of the ne bis in idem principle The thesis introduces this case in a well structured manner and critically reflects upon the judgment of the German Court By taking this case a starting point the author sets out clearly which underlying questions concerning the hierarchy between the different sources of EU law must be answered before a conclusion in a particular ne bis in idem case can be drawn The author of this thesis argues that Article 54 CISA as applied by the German Court in the Boere case is incompatible with Article 50 EuCFR a provision which does not contain an enforcement requirement She thereby analyses the relation between these two source of law the Schengen acquis and the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights in a profound refreshing and well substantiated manner Particularly the discussion of relevant ECJ case law is good and comprehensive The author subsequently assesses whether the incompatibility of Ar

Cheesy? How raw milk cheese made its way through the EU's legislative procedure like the village of indomitable Gauls Otto Möller, 2017-08-22 Seminar paper from the year 2017 in the subject Politics Topic European Union grade 1.0 University of Kent Brussels School of International Studies course EU Politics and Governance class language English abstract This essay will examine the policy making process in the European Union EU concerning food safety in the case of raw milk cheese production Food safety has been a key concern of the EU after several food scandals at the end of the 90's such as the mad cow disease or more recently the usage of falsely labeled horse meat As a reaction to that the focus shifted from the creation of a common food market to food safety The case of raw milk cheese is in so far an interesting one because it symbolizes a dilemma for the EU Firstly because the milk that is used for the production is untreated Untreated milk can be the cause of several diseases yet this kind of cheese is deeply rooted in the culture of especially southern European cuisine Secondly the common market aims to standardized products with the aim to create an even bigger more prosperous market and integrated market However the standardization takes place at the expense of product variety and the livelihood of small dairy farmers The challenging task for the union is to find a compromise between these driving factors
