An Eulogy on the Life and Services of President Lincoln Henry Clark, 2015-07-14

Excerpt from An Eulogy on the Life and Services of President Lincoln Pronounced Before the Citizens of Poultney and Vicinity April 19th 1865 Fellow Citizens I am sincerely and deeply sensible how unfitted I am for meeting the demands of such an hour or of doing justice to an event which has hardly left a loyal heart unmoved or a loyal eye unmoistened in our whole country and made us a nation of mourners It is no common task you have assigned me It is no common event which has assembled us together No joyous ceremonial no inaugural fete which has this day gathered you within these walls The emblems of woe are around us a nation is clad in the habiliments of mourning and the voice of wailing and lamentation is heard upon every breeze The head of this Republic the elect of the people the idol of a nation s hopes so recently called for the second time to preside over the destinies of our beloved country the Patriot the President has fallen by the hand of an assassin The illustrious man who but yesterday on the steps of the Federal Capitol under the shadow of our National banner and in the presence of assembled thousands from all parts of the land pronounced the solemn vow of fidelity to the Constitution and invoked the Ruler of the Universe to attest the sincerity of the pledge which he then gave has been compelled by a murderers hand to lay down the high commission with which he was invested The tongue which was then eloquent of truth is now mute forever even while its last echoes are yet lingering upon the ear the eye which then kindled with the inspiration of an exalted patriotism is already sealed in eternal sleep and the heart which then throbbed with the deepest anxiety for a nations welfare is forever at rest About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Holland,2018-01-30 Excerpt from Eulogy on Abraham Lincoln Late President of the United States Pronounced at the City Hall Springfield Mass April 19 1865 Therefore without trying to tell how much we loved him how much we honored him and how deeply and tenderly We mourn his loss let us brie y trace the reasons why his death has made so deep an impression upon us It is not five years since the nation knew but little of Abraham Lin coln We had heard of him as a man much honored by the members of a single party not then dominant in his own state We had seen something Of his work We knew that he was held to be a man of notable and peculiar power and of pure character and life Indeed it is doubt ful whether the nation knew enough Of him to justify the selection made by the convention which presented him to the country as a candidate For its highest office To this office however he was triumphantly elected and since that time his life has run like a thread of gold through the history of the most remarkable period Of the nation s ex istence About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Eulogy of

Eulogy on the Life and Public Services of Abraham Lincoln, Late President of the United States Thomas Williams, 2017-11-28 Excerpt from Eulogy on the Life and Public Services of Abraham Lincoln Late President of the United States Delivered by Public Request in Christ M E Church Pittsburgh Thursday June 1 1865 Yes Abraham Lincoln is no more All that could die of him who has defended and rebuilt the tottering structure of our fathers has passed from earthly view by a transition as abrupt as his who laid the foundations of the Eternal City and then according to the legendary epic of the Roman State was wrapt from mortal vision in a chariot of fire The Shadow of the destroyer has mounted behind the trooper and the grim Spectre of the grisly king followed close upon the pageant of the avenue The Wise and prudent ruler who was commissioned of God to lead this people through the fiery trials from which they have just emerged the chief who had just been lifted on their bucklers for a second time to the supreme command the idol of the popular heart Who had so recently been crowned anew at the Capitol With the symbols of a nation's power the insignia of a nation's trust and the rewards of a nation's gratitude amidst the thundering salvos of artillery and the responsive voices of an innumerable throng has ceased to listen to the applauding Shout and passed from the regards of men into the serener light of an abode beyond the stars Where the banner of war is furled and the hoarse summons of the trumpet and the roll of the stirring drum no longer awaken either to the battle or the triumph On two occasions only in our brief but eventful history the hand of death has fallen upon the head of this great Republic On both however it descended in a period of public tranquility by the quiet and gentle ministration of nature without shock and without disturbance The fruit fell when it was ripe and the nation grieved but not as those who are without hope It paused but for a moment to cast its tribute of affection on the tomb and then hurried onward in its high and prosperous career For the first time now in the very hurricane of civil strife a bloody tragedy of fearful aspect and more than mediaeval horror forestalling the dissolving processes that are interwoven with the law of life has snatched away the man who above all others was most dear to us almost in the twinkling of an eye in high health and in the very crisis of his great work when the regards of the world were most intently fixed upon him and the destinies of a nation were trembling in his hands It is as though an apparition had stalked in the midst of our rejoicings into the very presence of the festal board and it is under the projecting shadow with which that ghastly shape has darkened the whole land as with a general eclipse that I am asked to discourse to you of the merits and services of the extraordinary man who has thus disappeared from amongst us after having enacted so large a part in the greatest and most important era of the world's history It is a task which is never easy in the performance and cannot be faithfully executed until the lapse of years shall withdraw the observer from a proximity that is always unfavorable to the clearest vision and the work is consigned to the pen of impartial history It is one however which I have not felt at liberty to decline About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com An Eulogy on Abraham Lincoln, Sixteenth President of the United States: Pronounced by the Hon. Hammond, 2018-02 Excerpt from Abraham Lincoln An Eulogy Delivered at Anamosa Iowa on the Day of the State Fast April 27 1865 No wish is more frequent or more natural to those who live in periods of great excitement than that they might be placed if only for an hour far down the stream of Futurity and thus enabled to view the events and the men around them with the clear and impartial eye Of history The change would be like rising from amid the smoke and roar of a fierce battle where all is tumult confusion and hurry and where the keenest eye and the coolest brain can know nothing but the incidents of its own special locality to some lofty post of observation in whose serene atmosphere we can take in at a glance the whole field of conflict perceive the purpose and the result of every movement and clearly discern who and where are the master minds the ruling spirits of the strife But in the field of war and the field of history such achievements are equally difficult No man it has often been said ever saw a whole battle It may be doubted whether any was ever sagacious enough to read the events and the men of his own time among all the mists of prejudice the cannon roar of party strife the shock of conflicting ideas and passions so truly and impartially as after generations will About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at [www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may
