Heard of a paper for the International Journal of Health Services. Paul called Martin by. Someone was sure of his knowledge and asked to do almost all of the literature in the article. Another day Martin was in the office looking for records at the collection of the Journal of Health Services. He had a notebook of papers in his hand. He was sure that the Journal of Health Services was the only one that had the knowledge of how to do a continuous health survey. The paper would be a good one to read.

1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.
