The Human Difference Michael Robbins, 2023-10-02 From a multidisciplinary perspective grounded in psychoanalysis this book explores the manifestations of mind that distinguish humans from other species culture civilization and destructiveness Psychoanalysis was created by Freud in an effort to understand neurosis and psychosis the names he gave to individual human destructiveness His understanding was limited and incorrect because the science of evolution and the disciplines of sociology and cultural anthropology were in their infancy when he formulated his ideas He did not comprehend that destructiveness is qualitatively different in humans than in other species and he ignored the problem of how biological instincts become mental processes These limitations left psychoanalysis with one of its most perplexing unsolved problems the mysterious leap from mind to body This book explains how neoteny the prolonged period of postnatal immaturity that distinguishes humans from other animals requires and enables complex learning from caregivers It is the knowledge acquired from this learning and its intergenerational transmission that links the biological theory of evolution with the psychosocial theory of psychoanalysis and explains how the human species is unique This book will be of interest to those who want to learn about how integrating the findings of evolutionary science primatology sociology and cultural anthropology with the theory of psychoanalysis expands our understanding of what makes humans unique and its implications for the future of our species and how it empowers us to influence the destiny of humankind

Toxic Timescapes Simone M. Müller, May-Brith Ohman Nielsen, 2023-01-17 An interdisciplinary environmental humanities volume that explores human environment relationships on our permanently polluted planet While toxicity and pollution are ever present in modern daily life politicians juridical systems media outlets scholars and the public alike show great difficulty in detecting defining monitoring or generally coming to terms with them This volume s contributors argue that the source of this difficulty lies in the struggle to make sense of the intersecting temporal and spatial scales working on the human and more than human body while continuing to acknowledge race class and gender in terms of global environmental justice and social inequality The term toxic timescapes refers to this intricate intersectionality of time space and bodies in relation to toxic exposure As a tool of analysis it unpacks linear understandings of time and explores how harmful substances permeate temporal and physical space as both event and process It equips scholars with new ways of creating data and conceptualizing the past present and future presence and possible effects of harmful substances and provides a theoretical framework for new environmental narratives To think in terms of toxic timescapes is to radically shift our understanding of toxicants in the complex web of life Toxicity pollution and modes of exposure are never static therefore dose timing velocity mixture frequency and chronology matter as much as the geographic location and societal position of those exposed Together these factors create a specific toxic timescape that lies at the heart of each contributor s narrative Contributors from the disciplines of history human geography science and technology studies philosophy and political ecology come together to demonstrate the complex reality of a toxic existence Their case studies span the globe as they observe the intersection of multiple times and spaces at such diverse locations as former battlefields in Vietnam aging nuclear weapon storage facilities in Greenland waste deposits in southern Italy chemical facilities along the Gulf of Mexico and coral breeding laboratories across the world

Spheres of Transnational Ecoviolence Peter Stoett, Delon Alain Omrow, 2020-12-01 This book explores violence against the environment within the broad scope of transnational environmental crime TEC its extent perpetrators and responses TEC has become one of the greatest threats to environmental and human security today as well as a lucrative enterprise and a mode of life in many regions of the world

Transnational Spheres of Ecoviolence argues that we cannot seriously consider stopping TEC without also promoting environmental and climate justice. The spheres covered range from wildlife and plant crime to illegal fisheries to toxic waste and climate crime. These acts of violence against the environment are both localized in terms of event and impact and globalized in terms of market drivers and internationalized responses. Because it is so often intimately linked to political violence, coerced labor, economic and physical displacement, and development opportunity costs, ecoviolence must be viewed primarily as a human security issue; the fight against it must derive legitimacy from impacts on local communities and be twinned with the protection of environmental activists. Reliance on the generosity of distant corporations or the effectiveness of legal structures will not be adequate, and militarized responses may do more harm to human security than good to nature. A transformative approach to transnational ecoviolence is a very complex task, affected by the geopolitics of neoliberalism, authoritarian states, rebel factions, and extremists, socio-economic patterns, and many other factors. In this challenging text, the authors capture this complexity in digestible form and offer a wide-ranging discussion of commensurate policy recommendations for governments and the general public. Routledge Handbook of Human-Animal Studies Garry

Marvin, Susan McHugh, 2014-04-16. Human animal studies is an academic field that has grown exponentially over the past decade. It explores the whys, hows, and whats of human-animal relations: why animals are represented and configured in different ways in human cultures and societies around the world; how they are imagined, experienced, and given significance; what these relationships might signify about being human; and what about these relationships might be improved for the sake of the individuals as well as the communities concerned. The Routledge Handbook of Human Animal Studies presents a collection of original essays from artists and scholars who have established themselves internationally on the basis of specific and significant new contributions to human-animal studies. This international interdisciplinary handbook will be of interest to students and scholars of human-animal studies, sociology, anthropology, biology, environmental studies, geography, cultural studies, history, philosophy, media studies, gender studies, literature, psychology, ethology, and visual studies. Humanities, 1995. The Oxford Handbook of Environmental Ethics Stephen Mark Gardiner, Allen Thompson, 2017. We live during a crucial period of human history on Earth. Anthropogenic environmental changes are occurring on global scales at unprecedented rates. Despite a long history of environmental intervention, never before has the collective impact of human behaviors threatened all of the major bio-systems on the planet. Decisions we make today will have significant consequences for the basic conditions of all life into the indefinite future. What should we do? How should we behave? In what ways ought we to organize and respond? The future of the world as we know it depends on our actions today. A cutting-edge introduction to environmental ethics in a time of dramatic global environmental change, this collection contains forty-five newly commissioned articles with contributions from well-established experts and emerging voices in the field. Chapters are arranged in topical sections: social contexts, history, science, economics, law, and the Anthropocene, who or what is of value.
