The Projects James Diego Vigil, 2007-11-01 Using family life histories interviews and observations and social agency records the author researches what factors make some poor Mexican American families in East L A more vulnerable to gang membership than others Simultaneous Analysis and Recommendations Regarding Gang Violence and Delinquency in East Los Angeles East Los Angeles Inter-Agency Coalition, Edmund D. Edelman, Los Angeles County (Calif.). Board of Supervisors, 1978

Barrio Gangs James Diego Vigil, 2010-07-05 Within the Mexican American barrios of Los Angeles gang activity including crime and violent acts has grown and flourished In the past community leaders and law enforcement officials have approached the problem not as something that needs to be understood but only as something to be gotten rid of Rejecting that approach James D Vigil asserts that only by understanding the complex factors that give birth and persistence to gangs can gang violence be ended Drawing on many years of experience in the barrios as a youth worker high school teacher and researcher Vigil identifies the elements from which gangs spring isolation from the dominant culture poverty family stress and crowded households peer pressure and the adolescent struggle for self identity Using interviews with actual gang members he reveals how the gang often functions as parent school and law enforcement in the absence of other role models in the gang members lives And he accounts for the longevity of gangs sometimes over decades by showing how they offer barrio youth a sense of identity and belonging nowhere else available

The Truce Karen Umemoto, 2018-07-05 This ethnography of a gang war in the Los Angeles neighborhood of Oakwood just blocks from the famed Venice Beach boardwalk provides a rare eyewitness account of the urban violence pervasive in the recent history of the United States With seventeen people killed and more than fifty injured the hostilities over ten months in 1993 and 1994 marked the peak of gang violence in the history of Los Angeles a city once labeled the gang capital of the nation The conflict began as a quarrel among individuals some of whom had gang affiliations Over time the feud engulfed families and soon grew into a sustained clash between African American and Latino gangs Eventually victims fell who were not members of opposing gangs but who fit certain racial and gender profiles The conflict began to take on the attributes of what one local newspaper sensationalized as a race war Karen Umemoto lived nearby during this conflict and undertook two years of ethnographic research during and immediately following the spate of killings She now offers a nuanced analysis of the trajectory and eventual end of this acute crisis Her interviews with gang members neighborhood residents business leaders police officers and gang intervention workers reveal the complexity of contemporary American urban conflict The Truce highlights the differences in interpretations among combatants witnesses and law enforcement agents and others whose actions often had unintended consequences Drawing on her experience living in multicultural Los Angeles and on the latest scholarship in a wide variety of disciplines Umemoto provides much needed guidance for policymakers and concerned members of the public faced with violence in an ever changing urban landscape
