Globalisation and Services-driven Economic Growth Niels Beerepoot,Bart Lambregts,Jana Kleibert,2016-07-28 Following drastic shifts in the spatial organization of goods production increasingly fierce competition now forces firms also to look critically at how to organize the production of services While digitization and advances in information and communication technologies have enabled firms to unbundle service production processes the increased global availability of skilled labour allows for the relocation of ever more of these processes around the world As a result a new geography of services production takes shape a geography that is defined by new interregional and international divisions of labour and held together by increasingly complex global services production networks This book examines how the reorganisation of services production alters relations between and generates different sets of challenges and opportunities for economic development in the Global North and the Global South Drawing from 11 case studies probing various aspects of services production in different parts of the world the book brings out the remarkable heterogeneity and transformative capacities of services It successively shows how global trade in services creates new interdependencies between services producing and services consuming regions reveals how services help to mitigate the impact of and contribute to recovery from economic crises in the Global North and demonstrates how services offshoring fosters economic development and service sector driven modernisation processes in the Global South The book s openness to the heterogeneous and dynamic nature of services production enlarges our understanding of which particular services in which spatiotemporal context have the capacity to generate good jobs contribute to productivity and drive economic growth The book stands out from other books in the field in that it combines perspectives on services driven transformations from both the Global North and the Global South and looks into the role of various services segments Based on pioneering empirical research and original data it offers a timely contribution to this growing debate The book provides valuable insights for students scholars and professionals interested in services services offshoring services driven growth and socioeconomic transformations in the Global North and South

The Local Impact of Globalization in South and Southeast Asia Bart Lambregts, Niels Beerepoot, Robert C. Kloosterman, 2015-08-27 In the past two decades several millions of IT enabled services jobs have been relocated or offshored from the US and Europe to in particular low cost economies around the world Most of these jobs so far have landed in South and South East Asia with India and the Philippines receiving the bulk of them This has caused profound changes in the international division of labour and has had correspondingly wide social and economic effects This book examines how this next wave in globalization affects people and places in South and South East Asia It brings together twelve case studies from India the Philippines China Hong Kong and Thailand and explores how and for whom services offshoring creates opportunities triggers local economic transformations and produces challenges This book in addition compares how different countries take part in this second global shift investigates service sector driven economic development from a historical perspective and engages with the question whether and to what extent services offer a new promising avenue of sustained economic growth for developing countries It argues that service led development in developing countries is not easy for all the workers involved or a guaranteed path to sustained economic development and prosperity This volume stands out from other books in the field in its exploration of the social and economic outcomes in the cities and countries where services have been located Based on cutting edge empirical research and original data the volume offers a state of the art contribution to this growing debate The book provides valuable insights for students scholars and professionals interested in services offshoring socio economic development and contemporary transformations in South and South East Asia into this developing economy Moving the AEC Beyond 2015 Tham Siew Yean, 2018-02-14 The ten Southeast Asian economies reached a milestone on 31 December 2015 when they announced the formation of an ASEAN Community. Although this includes three pillars ASEAN Political Security Community, ASEAN Economic Community (AEC) and the ASEAN Socio Cultural Community, it is the economic pillar that generates immense debate due to its expected quantifiable benefits to member countries. This book thus focuses on the ASEAN Economic Community and seeks to explain the need for building domestic consensus within the member countries. It starts with an overview chapter describing the current achievements of the AEC. It then explores possible explanations for the achievements, non-achievements and offers a hypothesis on conflicting economic interests in a country as one possible explanation for gaps in implementation. This is because any form of economic liberalisation brings with it the winners and losers, thereby raising resistance to liberalization measures and slowing down the implementation process. The book includes six country chapters: Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam, that examine sources of domestic conflict in greater detail and depth. It also includes a regional chapter co-authored by the ex-Secretary General of ASEAN, Mr. Rodolfo Severino, that brings out the political nature of ASEAN economic cooperation since its inception in 1976. For ASEAN beyond 2015, the book articulates the need to obtain a strong domestic consensus that supports the integration initiatives of the AEC. This can be viewed as a way forward to accelerate and deepen integration within ASEAN. The book concludes with some suggestions on how each country can move towards achieving domestic consensus based on the respective country level analysis.

Handbook of Globalisation and Development Kenneth A. Reinert, 2017-03-31 Characterised by conceptual diversity, the Handbook of Globalisation and Development presents contributions from prominent international researchers on all aspects of globalisation and carefully considers their role across a whole host of development processes. The Handbook is structured around seven key areas: international trade, international production, international finance, migration, foreign aid, a broader view, and challenges. Adopting a multi-disciplinary approach, the section on a broader view delves into dimensions of globalisation and development that go beyond the mere economic, such as culture, technology, health, and poverty. Carefully crafted, the chapters herein offer a rigorous and comprehensive assessment of the available research to date and provide an assessment of policy options across all areas considered.

State Building and Development Keijiro Otsuka, Takashi Shiraishi, 2014-02-03 Why does a huge income gap still exist between developed and developing countries? Plausible causes on the surface may be the difference in technology, the quality of human resources, and economic institutions, but on the deeper level, the gap reflects the success and failure of state building, which is vital for economic development. This book provides cutting-edge knowledge on state building, economic development, and democratization based on case studies of Japan, ASEAN, South Asia, and selected countries in sub-Saharan Africa. The book examines the interaction between land policies and the state building in sub-Saharan Africa. It also pays special attention to corruption, which affects the relationship between the state and the development and decentralization which exerts influences on the contentious politics Finally the book also sheds new light on the failure and success of industrial policies based on a literature review and a case study of the rapidly growing pharmaceutical industry in Bangladesh This book is one of the few studies which squarely addresses state building and economic development and will be of use to those interested in this subject development practitioners and policymakers in developing countries

The Distributional Impacts of Trade Jakob Engel,Deeksha Kokas,Gladys Lopez-Acevedo,Maryla Maliszewska,2021-06-09 Trade is a well established driver of growth and poverty reduction But changes in trade policy also have distributional impacts that create winners and losers It is vital to understand and clearly communicate how trade affects economic well being across all segments of the population as well as how policies can more effectively ensure that the gains from trade are distributed more widely The Distributional Impacts of Trade Empirical Innovations Analytical Tools and Policy Responses provides a deeper understanding of the distributional effects of trade across regions industries and demographic groups within countries over time It includes an overview chapter 1 a review of innovations in empirical and theoretical work covering the impacts of trade at the subnational level chapter 2 highlights from empirical case studies on Bangladesh Brazil Mexico South Africa and Sri Lanka chapter 3 and a policy agenda to improve distributional outcomes from trade chapter 4 This book comes at a time when the shock from COVID 19 coronavirus adds to an already uncertain trade policy environment in which the value of the multilateral trading system has been under increased scrutiny A better understanding of how trade affects distributional outcomes can lead to more inclusive policies and support the ability of countries to maximize broad based benefits from trade

Service Industries and Regions Juan R. Cuadrado-Roura,2013-03-26 The service sector in most advanced economies accounts for up to seventy percent of employment and GDP and given its growing importance has received much research attention over the last two decades However not very much attention has been paid to the relationship between this sector and both its territorial impact and regional effects The main objective of this book is to offer a comprehensive approach to these aspects focusing particularly on the location factors of service industries and the importance of some specific services such as business services and knowledge and information services The contributions have been prepared by well known experts in the field from a wide number of countries The focus of all contributions is not only on theoretical aspects but also provides empirical analyses on specific countries and topics such as the geographical concentration globalization impacts foreign direct investments and innovation

Trade in Zimbabwe Richard Newfarmer,Martha Denisse Pierola,2015-05-26 In Zimbabwe trade has been a driver of economic growth rising incomes and progressive empowerment of Zimbabweans through rising standards of living and the promise of better jobs Since 1980 through good years and bad years increases in exports have been positively associated with increases in national income Zimbabwe s location and resource base together with a low cost but relatively well educated labor force have endowed it with a naturally high trade ratio built on a diversified base that facilitates using trade as an engine of growth While trade volumes have rebounded smartly from the deep recession of 2007 2008 these do not offset other worrisome longer term trends Export growth during the last decade has been lacklustre and failed to drive high growth Agricultural exports other than tobacco have lost their once dominant role in the region and are no longer a source of diversification Manufacturing has withered in a continuing secular decline Zimbabwe s export basket has become less diversified and more dependent on a narrow range of mineral and to a lesser extent agricultural products In short exports have become less diversified less technologically sophisticated and less labor intensive and ever more dependent on a few large mining activities to provide foreign exchange and employment This report traces the roots of this poor performance to several policy issues poor predictability of macroeconomic policy and economic governance has created an unfavorable climate for private investment and trade a tariff structure that dampens export profitability industrial policies indigenization policy in particular that undermine investor confidence and inhibits private investment and finally competition limiting policies toward services that limit connectivity of Zimbabweans and raise trade costs The good news arising from the study is that the remedies for these policy shortcomings lie in Zimbabwean hands If the government were to adopt reforms that reconfigure economy wide incentives and trade and industrial policies it could promote sustained growth economic diversification and empowerment of poor people
