Standards Based Report Cards. Research Brief Mike Muir, 2005. With the increased focus on standards-based education, more and more states, districts, and schools are becoming interested in standards-based grading and report cards. Hawaii, for example, is a state that is working hard on its Standards Implementation Design (SID) including standards-based report cards. As a component of Maine's Local Assessment System, schools have the need to report student progress as it relates to the four performance levels as defined by the Maine Education Assessment: 4th, 8th, 2. Partially meets the standard, 3. Meets the standard, and 4. Exceeds the standard. Although standards-based report cards are not required, it is a logical next step. It seems that many jurisdictions across the country are phasing in standards-based report cards, beginning with the elementary grades and then adding the middle schools and high schools in later years. But most of those jurisdictions seem to still rely on proficiency testing for high school students, even though more and more high schools seem to be exploring standards-based report cards.
