The Architecture of Modern Italy Terry Kirk, 2005-06-02 Modern Italy may sound like an oxymoron For Western civilization Italian culture represents the classical past and the continuity of canonical tradition while modernity is understood in contrary terms of rupture and rapid innovation Charting the evolution of a culture renowned for its historical past into the 10 modern era challenges our understanding of both the resilience of tradition and the elasticity of modernity We have a tendency when imagining Italy to look to a rather distant and definitely premodern setting The ancient forum medieval cloisters baroque piazzas and papal palaces constitute our ideal itinerary of Italian civilization The Campo of Siena Saint Peter's all of Venice and San Gimignano satisfy us with their seemingly unbroken panoramas onto historical moments untouched by time but elsewhere modern intrusions alter and obstruct the view to the landscapes of our expectations As seasonal tourist or seasoned historian we edit the encroachments time and change have wrought on our image of Italy The learning of history is always a complex task one that in the Italian environment is complicated by the changes wrought everywhere over the past 250 years Culture on the peninsula continues to evolve with characteristic vibrancy Italy is not a museum To think of it as such as a disorganized yet phenomenally rich museum unchanging in its exhibits is to misunderstand the nature of the Italian cultural condition and the writing of history itself

Carlo Scarpa and the Castelvecchio Richard Murphy, 1990 The Castelvecchio in Verona renovated between 1958-1964 as a museum is the best known project of the Italian architect Carlo Scarpa 1906-1978 The author Richard Murphy traces the initial ideas as represented by Scarpa's beautiful yet incisive sketches through the various stages of work to building completion Numerous drawings by Scarpa many illustrated in colour are supplemented by Murphy's own superb measured line drawings which accurately show the full realisation of Scarpa's building as it stands today

Suspending Modernity: The Architecture of Franco Albini Kay Bea Jones, 2016-04-01 Franco Albini s works of architecture and design produced between 1930 and 1977 have enjoyed a recent revival but to date have received only sporadic scholarly attention from historians and critics of the Modern Movement A chorus of Italian voices has sung his praises none more eloquently than his prot g Renzo Piano Kay Bea Jones illuminating study of selected works by Studio Albini will reintroduce his contributions to one of the most productive periods in Italian design Albini emerged from the ideology of Rationalism to produce some of Italy s most coherent and poetic examples of modern design He collaborated for over 25 years with Franca Helg and at a time when professional male female partnerships were virtually unknown His museums and installation motifs changed the way Italians displayed historic artifacts He composed novel suspension structures for dwellings shops galleries and his signature INA pavilions where levity and gravity became symbolic devices for connoting his subjects Albini clarified the vital role of tradition in modern architecture as he experimented with domestic space His cohort defied CIAM ideologies to re socialize postwar housing and speculate on ways of reviving Italian cities He explored new fabrication technologies from the scale of furniture to wide span steel structures yet he never abandoned the rigors of craft and detail in favor of mass production

Suspending Modernity follows the evolution of Albin's most important buildings and projects even as they reveal his apprehensive attitudes about the modern condition Jones argues here that Albin's masterful use of materials and architectural expression mark an epic paradigm shift in the modern period
