

In addition to the thrust forces developed by the main engine sections,

The larger turboprop engines more complex construction than engines. For example, the engine R-3350 engine is composed of the main section, four crankcase main sections (the front main, the front crank, the rear crank, and the rear main sections), the rear crank and taper housing, the supercharger front housing, the supercharger rear housing, and the supercharger rear housing cover. Pratt and Whitney engines of comparable size incorporate the same basic sections, although

The shape of these sections varies considerably. In general, it is either tapered or round in order to place the metal under tension or compression instead of shear stresses. A tapered main section is used quite frequently on direct-drive, low-powered engines, because extra space is not required to house the propeller reduction gear. It is usually cast of
