This volume is intended to make a contribution towards filling this gap by drawing attention to and throwing fresh light on the presence in ancient Greek and Roman narratives of earlier literary echoes. While one volume is by no means sufficient to remedy the problem of the relative lack of scholarship on the topic nevertheless it is hoped that the present collection will create scope for debate and will generate greater scholarly interest in this area. Most of the articles collected here originated in the colloquium The Ancient Novel and its Reception of Earlier Literature which was held at University College Cork in August 2007. They investigate the interconnection between Graeco Roman narratives and earlier or contemporary works and consider ways in which intertextual exploration is invited from the readers of these texts. What prompts the reader to associate a passage with an earlier text? What triggers in a text the evocation of motifs from antecedent literature? How might we interpret an identified allusion? In what ways can intertextuality function as a device of characterisation? These are among the questions explored by the chapters in this volume which concentrate on the canonical Greek romances and the Roman novels but also cover other novel like works such as the Alexander Romance and Alexander's Letter to Aristotle About India and the Story of Apollonius King of Tyre.

The Future of the Nineteenth-Century Dream-Child Amy Billone, 2016-06-10. This book investigates the reappearance of the 19th century dream child from the Golden Age of Children's Literature both in the Harry Potter series and in other works that have reached unprecedented levels of popular success today. Discussing Harry Potter as a reincarnation of Lewis Carroll's Alice and J M Barrie's Peter Pan, Billone goes on to examine the recent resurrection of Alice in Tim Burton's Alice and of Peter Pan in Michael Jackson and in James Bond. Visiting trends that have emerged since the Harry Potter series ended, the book studies revisions of the dream child in texts and films that have inspired mass fandom in the twenty first century: Stephenie Meyer's Twilight, E L James's 50 Shades of Grey and Suzanne Collins's The Hunger Games. The volume argues that the 21st century desire to achieve dream states in relationship to eternal youth results from the way that dreams provide a means of realizing the fantastic yet alarming possibility of escaping from time. This current identification with the dream child stems from the threat of political unrest and economic and environmental collapse as well as from the simultaneous technophilia and technophobia of a culture immersed in the breathless revolution of the digital age. This book not only explores how the dream child from the past has returned to reflect misgivings about imagined dystopian futures but also reveals how the rebirth of the dream child opens up possibilities for new narratives where happy endings remain viable against all odds. It will appeal to scholars in a wide variety of fields including Childhood Studies, Children's YA Literature, Cinema Studies, Cultural Studies, Cyberculture, Gender Studies, Queer Studies, Gothic Studies, New Media and Popular Culture.
