Unequal City Carla Shedd, 2015-10-20 Chicago has long struggled with racial residential segregation high rates of poverty and deepening class stratification and it can be a challenging place for adolescents to grow up Unequal City examines the ways in which Chicago s most vulnerable residents navigate their neighborhoods life opportunities and encounters with the law In this pioneering analysis of the intersection of race place and opportunity sociologist and criminal justice expert Carla Shedd illuminates how schools either reinforce or ameliorate the social inequalities that shape the worlds of these adolescents Shedd draws from an array of data and in depth interviews with Chicago youth to offer new insight into this understudied group Focusing on four public high schools with differing student bodies Shedd reveals how the predominantly low income African American students at one school encounter obstacles their more affluent white counterparts on the other side of the city do not face Teens often travel long distances to attend school which due to Chicago s segregated and highly unequal neighborhoods can involve crossing class race and gang lines As Shedd explains the disadvantaged teens who traverse these boundaries daily develop a keen perception of injustice or the recognition that their economic and educational opportunities are restricted by their place in the social hierarchy Adolescents worldviews are also influenced by encounters with law enforcement while traveling to school and during school hours Shedd tracks the rise of metal detectors surveillance cameras and pat downs at certain Chicago schools Along with police procedures like stop and frisk these prison like practices lead to distrust of authority and feelings of powerlessness among the adolescents who experience mistreatment either firsthand or vicariously Shedd finds that the racial composition of the student body profoundly shapes students perceptions of injustice The more diverse a school is the more likely its students of color will recognize whether they are subject to discriminatory treatment By contrast African American and Hispanic youth whose schools and neighborhoods are both highly segregated and highly policed are less likely to understand their individual and group disadvantage due to their lack of exposure to youth of differing backgrounds

Noel Epstein, 2004-09-27 Few Americans are aware that their nation long ago created a separate government for education supposedly to shield it from political interference Some experts believe that at the heart of today's school debates is a push to put the larger government presidents governors mayors in the drivers seat or even to dump democratic school governance entirely The results are mixed One clear result however is a vexing tangle of authority and accountability Whos in Charge Here untangles it all      Injury Prevention and Public Health Tom Christoffel, Susan Scavo Gallagher, 2006 Health Behavior Education Promotion
