Old or new waves in Capo Graziano decorative styles? John Ll. Williams, Sara T. Levi, Maria Clara Martinelli, Paola Vertuani, 2017-03-07T00:00:00+01:00 Six main decorative styles have been tentatively distinguished in the Early Middle Bronze age Capo Graziano incised pottery of the Aeolian Islands This experimental study focuses on the analysis of 68 bowls from the islands of Lipari Filicudi Salina and Stromboli and from Milazzo in Sicily The classification is based on motifs and styles and integrates typology technology composition and decoration in their identification The styles are linked to production centres showing different spatial and temporal variations and appear to reflect different dynamics the expert individual craftsman the design in fashion the symbolic code or the fulfilment of specific functions The evaluation of skill in application and variability in the concept are measured in order to assess the social implications in the production of the pottery This interim investigation will continue to refine the chronology and to establish the decorative styles in other Aeolian Islands It is possible that schematic elements in the decorative styles such as undulating lines and metopes reflect the maritime and insular environment of the Aeolian Islands

Style and Function in Roman Decoration Ellen Swift, 2018-04-19 This important book puts forward a new interpretation of Roman decorative art focusing on the function of decoration in the social context It examines the three principal areas of social display and conspicuous consumption in the Roman world social space entertainment and dress and discusses the significance of the decoration of objects and interiors within these contexts drawing examples from both Rome and its environs and the Western provinces from the early Imperial period to Late Antiquity Focusing on specific examples including mosaics and other interior d cor silver plate glass and pottery vessels and jewellery and other dress accessories Swift demonstrates the importance of decoration in creating and maintaining social networks and identities and fostering appropriate social behaviour and its role in perpetuating social convention and social norms It is argued that our understanding of stylistic change and the relationship between this and the wider social context in the art of the Roman period is greatly enhanced by an initial focus on the particular social relationships fostered by decorated objects and spaces The book demonstrates that an examination of so called minor art is fundamental in any understanding of the relationship between art and its social context and aims to reinvigorate debate on the value of decoration and ornament in the Roman period and beyond
