effect of the individual's experimental immersion in the Centre's activities. During this time the claims of the Buddhist worldview are tested against personal experience and convictions. Using rich ethnographic data and Lofland and Skonovd's experimental conversion motif as a model for theorizing the stages of involvement leading to commitment, the author demonstrates that this study has a wider application to our understanding of the role of alternative religions in western contexts.

Emotions and The Body in Buddhist Contemplative Practice and Mindfulness-Based Therapy Padmasiri de Silva, 2017-06-30 This book represents an outstanding contribution to the field of somatic psychology. It focuses on the relationship between body and emotions and on the linkages between mindfulness-based emotion studies and neuroscience. The author discusses the awakening of somatic intelligence as a journey through pain and trauma management, the moral dimensions of somatic passions and the art and practice of embodied mindfulness. Issues such as the emotions and the body in relation to Buddhist contemplative practice against the background of the most recent findings of current neuroscience are expanded in the book. A broad review of the Darwinian/Jamesian heritage on emotion studies is a unique contribution to the tradition of the somatogenic strands of emotions and provides a contrasting focus to the ideogenic emotions in Sigmund Freud. This work provides an invaluable resource for students of psychology and philosophy, psychotherapists and meditation teachers, students and for anyone with an interest in the field of somatic psychology.

Buddhist Women on the Edge Marianne Dresser, 1996-08-22 As Buddhism is assimilated into the West, it is imperative that women reshape its patriarchal structures and carve out a fully legitimate empowering position for themselves. Marianne Dresser brings together the likes of Pema Chodron, Tsultrim Allione and bell hooks. 30 women in all who are doing just that. Writers, nuns, scholars, priests, even a martial arts master and a private investigator discuss women in Buddhism in a range of essays. Several pieces question the suppression of emotion required for selflessness, appealing to the undeniable reality of day-to-day living. Others discuss their experiences as women in Buddhism, whether as nuns or as lay practitioners. Still others address the history of women in Buddhism, racial questions, meditation, poetry, compassion, social activism and sexual orientation. Most of these writers have been in Buddhism for two or three decades and offer a wealth of experience and insights targeted at women readers, but no less valuable to men.
