Processing in Modern Communication Israel Cohen,Jacob Benesty,Sharon Gannot,2009-12-18 Modern communication devices such as mobile phones teleconferencing systems VoIP etc are often used in noisy and reverberant environments Therefore signals picked up by the microphones from telecommunication devices contain not only the desired near end speech signal but also interferences such as the background noise far end echoes produced by the loudspeaker and reverberations of the desired source These interferences degrade the fidelity and intelligibility of the near end speech in human to human telecommunications and decrease the performance of human to machine interfaces i e automatic speech recognition systems The proposed book deals with the fundamental challenges of speech processing in modern communication including speech enhancement interference suppression acoustic echo cancellation relative transfer function identification source localization dereverberation and beamforming in reverberant environments Enhancement of speech signals is necessary whenever the source signal is corrupted by noise In highly non stationary noise environments noise transients and interferences may be extremely annoying Acoustic echo cancellation is used to eliminate the acoustic coupling between the loudspeaker and the microphone of a communication device Identification of the relative transfer function between sensors in response to a desired speech signal enables to derive a reference noise signal for suppressing directional or coherent noise sources Source localization dereverberation and beamforming in reverberant environments further enable to increase the intelligibility of the near end speech signal A Mobile Passive Radar System Markus

Krückemeier,2022-09-28 Airspace surveillance is one of the classic applications of radar technology Existing systems are focused on large scale surveillance of commercial airspace This research presents a prototype of a small mobile passive radar system that for example can be used to monitor aircraft and UAVs in the airspace over maritime borders The system is based on a coherent software defined receiving system for data acquisition The signal processing is subsequently performed in the digital domain The paper gives an introduction to all the required fundamentals and all the relevant steps of signal processing are shown starting from digital beamforming through the generation of the range Doppler matrices all the way to the tracking of targets using Kalman filters Furthermore a novel system for the detection of transmitter locations is presented which allows the use of such a system in previously unknown scenarios Finally measurements are presented to show what such a system can achieve under real world conditions Communications and Networking Honghao Gao,Jun
