Ramadurai, Sujata K. Bhatia, 2018-12-06 Throughout history humanity has been plagued by a myriad of humanitarian crises that seemingly take the form of perpetual human suffering Today approximately 125 000 000 people require humanitarian assistance as the result of famine war geopolitical conflict and natural disasters A core component of this suffering is afflictions related to human health where disturbances strain or overwhelm the existing healthcare infrastructure to create the conditions for an increase in morbidities and co morbidities One of the more startling elements is the loss of life to preventable medical conditions that were not properly treated or even diagnosed in the field and is often due to the limited interventional capacity that medical teams and humanitarian practitioners have in these scenarios. These individuals are often hindered by medical equipment deficiencies or devices not meant to function in austere conditions. The development of highly versatile, feasible and cost-effective medical devices and technologies that can be deployed in the field is essential to enhancing medical care in unconventional settings. In this book, we examine the nature of the creative problem-solving paradigm and dissect the intersection of frugal, disruptive, open and reverse innovation processes in advancing humanitarian medicine. Specifically, we examine the feasible deployment of these devices and technologies in unconventional environments not only by humanitarian aid and disaster relief agencies but also by crisis-affected communities themselves. The challenge is complex, but the financial support and technical development of innovative solutions for the delivery of humanitarian aid is a process in which everyone is a stakeholder.

Cracking the MRCS Viva Iain Au-Yong, Simon Howarth, Tjun Tang, Robert Sayers, Rajesh Sivaprakasam, 2006-11-24. Cracking the MRCS Viva is an outstanding guide to the MRCS Viva examination. Its unique approach recreates the structure and content of each individual viva, allowing the reader to self-test or two students to recreate mock viva sessions for themselves. Divided into six sections to mirror the exam: applied surgical anatomy, operative surgery, applied surgical pathology, principles of surgery, applied surgical physiology and critical care, each section covers a range of topics listed alphabetically and contains all the information required to pass the exam using concise bullet-point text, helpful tables and easy-to-reproduce diagrams. Written by registrars who have all recently passed the MRCS plus an MRCS examiner, this comprehensive and user-friendly revision guide also contains considerable input from other senior specialists.

FRCS General Surgery Viva Topics and Revision Notes Stephen Brennan, 2011. A study guide for candidates of the Fellowship of the Royal College of Surgeons examination. Contains revision notes, MCQs and SBAs.

FRCS Alexander Philips, Bhaskar Kumar, 2015-07-31. There is a need for a concise revision guide for the FRCS General Surgery Intercollegiate exam, and this is such a book, serving as a companion for the trainee throughout the course of their six-year training rotation. It reflects the exact framework of the exam syllabus issued by the Joint Committee on Higher Surgical Training (JCHST) and contains the most recently amended guidelines. The question and answer style used is a popular and effective method which lends itself perfectly to studying either alone or as a group, wherein one acts as examiner and the other as candidate. Further, the exam is very clinically orientated, with vivas based on a clinical scenario using patients and images as a method of initiating clinical discussion. This book will act as supplementary reading for any course relating to the FRCS exit examination in general surgery. Both the authors and main contributors have passed the FRCS exam in general surgery and have many years' experience in postgraduate medical education.
