front designed to pre-empt and overcome defenses. Because these characteristics appear relevant to current theater operations, the Soviets study the more prominent operational and tactical techniques used in Manchuria in 1945. What is of obvious interest to the Soviet military professional should be of interest to the U.S. officer as well. August Storm David M. Glantz, 1983. In this companion piece to Leavenworth Paper No. 7, August Storm: The Soviet Strategic Offensive in Manchuria, 1945, the author focuses on the operational and tactical levels of the Manchurian campaign, highlighting the techniques that brought victory to Soviet combined arms during the last days of World War II. In eight case studies, it examines various kinds of military operations from tank armies crossing mountains and desert to joint ground and riverine actions conducted over diverse terrain from heavily wooded mountains to swampy lowlands. Joseph Conrad and the Swan Song of Romance Katherine Isobel Baxter, 2018-02-06. In the first critical study wholly devoted to Joseph Conrad's use of techniques associated with the literary tradition of romance, the author argues that Conrad's engagement with the genre invigorated his work throughout his career. Exploring the ways in which Conrad borrows from, alludes to, and subverts the tropes of romance, the author suggests that Conrad's ambivalent relationship with popular forms like the adventure novel is revealed in the way he uses romance conventions to disrupt narrative expectations and make visible ethical problems with Europe's colonial project. The author examines not only familiar novels like Lord Jim but also less studied works such as Romance and The Rover using Robert Miles's model of the philosophical romance to show that for Conrad, romance is also philosophically engaged with issues of ideology. Her study enables a new appreciation of the ways in which Conrad continued to experiment even in his later fiction and of the ethical import of that aesthetic experimentation. The Northeastern Reporter, 1925. Includes the decisions of the Supreme Courts of Massachusetts, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois and Court of Appeals of New York. May/July 1891, Mar/Apr 1936, Appellate Court of Indiana, Dec 1926, Feb 1927, Mar/Apr 1936, Courts of Appeals of Ohio. Family Recovery and Substance Abuse Joseph K. Nowinski, 1999. This book details a structured research-based approach to working with the significant others of substance abusers. The approach called Unilateral Family Therapy offers partners and family members hope not only of improving their own mental health but also teaches how to restructure their relationship to the substance abuser in ways which could enhance the substance abuser's motivation to change and lead him or her to treatment.

Engaging with the World Margaret S. Archer, Andrea Maccarini, 2013-04-02. This title reflects the general theme of the 2010 IACR annual conference that was held in Padova, Italy, the aim of which was to provide a fresh view on some cultural and structural changes involving Western societies after the world economic crisis of 2008 from the point of view of Critical Realism. Global society is often regarded as disrupting identities and blurring boundaries, one which entails giving up ideas of structure and fixity. Globalization supposedly introduces a liquid era of fluidity where everything is possible and anything goes. Nevertheless, its current dynamics are developing into a harder reality: wars, economic crisis, the haunting risk of pandemics, the ever-worsening food supply crisis, and the environmental challenge. These social facts call for a dramatic shift.

in the optimistic cosmopolitan mood and the thought that we can build and rebuild ourselves and our world as we please at least for the most developed countries The challenges we face produce new forms of social life and individual experience They also require us to develop new frameworks to analyze emergent contexts institutional complexes and morphogenetic fields and new ways to understand human agency and the meaning of emancipation The book broadly falls into three parts The first Social Ontology and a New Historical Formation deals with mainly social ontological issues insofar as they are connected to social scientific and public issues in the emerging society of the XXI century The second Being human and the adventure of agency is concerned with the way human beings adapts to the new world of our times and comes up with innovative models of agency and socialization The third The constitutionalization of the new world explores critical realist perspectives as compared to system theoretical ones on the issue of global order and justice In all of this the challenge is to engage with this new world in a meaningful way a task for which a realist mind set is badly needed Critical realism provides a strong theoretical framework that can meet the challenge and the book explores its contribution to making sense of and coming to terms with this historical formation

Shakespeare's Imagined Persons P. Murray, 1996-05-10 Challenging our understanding of ideas about psychology in Shakespeare's time Shakespeare's Imagined Persons proposes we should view his characters as imagined persons A new reading of B F Skinner's radical behaviourism brings out how contrary to the impression he created Skinner ascribes an important role in human behaviour to cognitive activity Using this analysis Peter Murray demonstrates the consistency of radical behaviourism with the psychology of character formation and acting in writers from Plato to Shakespeare an approach little explored in the current debates about subjectivity in Elizabethan culture Murray also shows that radical behaviourism can explain the phenomena observed in modern studies of acting and social role playing Drawing on these analyses of earlier and modern psychology Murray goes on to reveal the dynamics of Shakespeare's characterizations of Hamlet Prince Hal Rosalind and Perdita in a fascinating new light
