Exploring Physical Anthropology is a comprehensive full color lab manual intended for an introductory laboratory course in physical anthropology. It can also serve as a supplementary workbook for a lecture class particularly in the absence of a laboratory offering. This laboratory manual enables a hands on approach to learning about the evolutionary processes that resulted in humans through the use of numerous examples and exercises. It offers a solid grounding in the main areas of an introductory physical anthropology lab course: genetics, evolutionary forces, human osteology, forensic anthropology, comparative functional skeletal anatomy, primate behavior, paleoanthropology, and modern human biological variation.

Connecting with Our Ancestors: Human Evolution Museum Experiences Shelley L. Smith, 2024-09-29 This book combines documentation and analysis of the contents of exhibits in 12 museums. Part 1 with interviews with experts involved in the creation of exhibits. Part 2 to explore variation in human evolution exhibits. To be successful museum exhibits must make a personal connection with visitors inspiring them to learn more. Human evolution exhibits thus need contemporary relevance. It is crucial to find ways to bind our deep past to our lives today. Presenting our story and our collective history. Some human evolution exhibits reach an audience of millions each year. An understanding of evolution is fundamental to modern biology and a lack of knowledge of basic principles has practical consequences including impairing reception of health messages. The goal of the volume is to stimulate discussion of how the presentation of evolution and in particular human evolution can be improved contributing to scientific literacy and engagement with evolutionary science. To enhance relevance to a broader public the author argues that incorporation of evolutionary medicine and clearer explanations of ancestry and human biological variation are needed. The surveyed museums include four in Texas the author's home state seven additional renowned U.S. museums and the Natural History Museum in London. Some of the 35 interviewees are prominent academic researchers other contribute their expertise in design art and education. Topics discussed include exhibit content and changing exhibits the ideal vs reality in exhibit creation self assessments of exhibits education and edutainment and exhibit content intersections with religion politics and the history of representations of race human biological variation. A bibliographic essay appendices and text boxes provide additional information for readers desiring more in depth study. This volume is of interest to a wide range of readers in anthropology museum studies and science communication.

Race Vincent Sarich, 2018-03-05 The conventional wisdom in contemporary social science claims that human races are not biologically valid categories Many argue the very words race and racial differences should be abolished because they support racism In Race Vincent Sarich and Frank Miele challenge both these tenets First they cite the historical record the art and literature of other civilizations and cultures morphological studies cognitive psychology and the latest research in medical genetics forensics and the human genome to demonstrate that racial differences are not trivial but very real They conclude with the paradox that while scientific honesty requires forthright recognition of racial differences public policy should not recognize racial group membership The evidence and issues raised in this book will be of critical interest to students of race in behavioral and political science medicine and law

Neandertals Yvette La Pierre, 2007-12-15 Takes a look at the Neandertals and the process by which information about prehistoric peoples is gathered and analyzed

Holocene Extinctions Samuel T. Turvey, 2009-05-28 The extent to which human activity has influenced species extinctions during the recent prehistoric past remains controversial due to other factors such as climatic fluctuations and a general lack of data However the Holocene the geological interval spanning the last 11 500 years from the end of the last glaciation has witnessed massive levels of extinctions that have continued into the modern historical era but in a context of only relatively minor climatic fluctuations This makes a detailed consideration of these extinctions a useful system for investigating the impacts of human activity over time Holocene Extinctions describes and analyses the range of global extinction events which have occurred during this key time period as well as their relationship to both earlier and ongoing species losses By integrating information from fields as diverse as zoology ecology palaeontology archaeology and geography and by incorporating data from a broad range of taxonomic groups and ecosystems this novel text provides a fascinating insight into human impacts on global extinction rates both past and present This truly interdisciplinary book is suitable for both graduate students and researchers in these varied fields It will also be of value and use to policy makers and conservation professionals since it provides valuable guidance on how to apply lessons from the past to prevent future biodiversity loss and inform modern conservation planning
