Creative User-Generated World Rachel Maguire, 2025-05-01 This book explores the relationship between copyright law online anonymity and creative user generated content CUGC Presenting original empirical findings the book evaluates the co existence of copyright law and normative systems regulating a CUGC landscape made up of artists photographers and writers and makes novel recommendations for copyright reform It takes a multi jurisdictional approach across Anglo American and EU legal systems using the UK USA and Germany as representative jurisdictions for legal analysis Qualitative findings are drawn from creators and communities on Reddit and 4chan Copyright subsists in much CUGC but pervasive anonymity makes it difficult for the law to regulate it effectively Simultaneously anonymity offers creative benefits in a way that highlights flaws in traditional justifications of copyright Comparisons between community norms and copyright law identify practical differences but also fundamental compatibilities in terms of ownership expectations However the simultaneous existence of legal and normative enforcement mechanisms complicates matters for creators and potential users with negative implications for creativity and copyright law While existing reform efforts have made suggestions to create a UGC exception these overlook and undermine the role of CUGC creators as copyright holders This can be addressed through the consideration of a framework of supplementary CUGC guidelines when developing such reforms This valuable resource for researchers and students provides a distinct perspective in framing CUGC creators as copyright holders examining online anonymity as a pivotal factor influencing regulation

The Onlife Manifesto Luciano Floridi, 2014-11-16 What is the impact of information and communication technologies ICTs on the human condition In order to address this question in 2012 the European Commission organized a research project entitled The Onlife Initiative concept reengineering for rethinking societal concerns in the digital transition This volume collects the work of the Onlife Initiative It explores how the development and widespread use of ICTs have a radical impact on the human condition ICTs are not mere tools but rather social forces that are increasingly affecting our self conception who we are our mutual interactions how we socialise our conception of reality our metaphysics and our interactions with reality our agency In each case ICTs have a huge ethical legal and political significance yet one with which we have begun to come to terms only recently The impact exercised by ICTs is due to at least four major transformations the blurring of the distinction between reality and virtuality the blurring of the distinction between human machine and nature the reversal from information scarcity to information abundance and the shift from the primacy of stand alone things properties and binary relations to the primacy of interactions processes and networks Such transformations are testing the foundations of our conceptual frameworks Our current conceptual toolbox is no longer fitted to address new ICT related challenges This is not only a problem in itself It is also a risk because the lack of a clear understanding of our present time may easily lead to negative projections about the future The goal of The Manifesto and of the whole book that contextualises is therefore that of contributing to the update of our philosophy It is a constructive goal The book is meant to be a positive contribution to rethinking the philosophy on which policies are built in a hyperconnected world so that we may have a better chance of understanding our ICT related problems and solving them satisfactorily The Manifesto launches an open debate on the impacts of ICTs on public spaces politics and societal expectations toward policymaking in the Digital Agenda for Europe s remit More broadly it helps start a reflection on the way in which a hyperconnected world calls for rethinking the referential frameworks on which policies are built

Bridges, 2017-06-27 The Poverty of Privacy Rights makes a simple controversial argument Poor mothers in America have been deprived of the right to privacy The U S Constitution is supposed to bestow rights equally Yet the poor are subject to invasions of privacy that can be perceived as gross demonstrations of governmental power without limits Courts have routinely upheld the constitutionality of privacy invasions on the poor and legal scholars typically understand marginalized populations to have weak versions of the privacy rights everyone else enjoys Khiara M Bridges investigates poor mothers experiences with the state both when they receive public assistance and when they do not Presenting a holistic view of just how the state intervenes in all facets of poor mothers privacy Bridges shows how the Constitution has not been interpreted to bestow these women with family informational and reproductive privacy rights Bridges seeks to turn popular thinking on its head Poor mothers lack of privacy is not a function of their reliance on government assistance rather it is a function of their not bearing any privacy rights in the first place Until we disrupt the cultural narratives that equate poverty with immorality poor mothers will continue to be denied this right Journal of Law and Technology at Texas Volume 1 JOLTT, 2018-05-05 This is the first publication by the Journal of Law and Technology at Texas JOLTT JOLTT is committed to exploring the vast impact technology has on the policies and practice of law Our goal is to gather articles host events and bring speakers which serve to illuminate the changing legal landscape This first volume includes topics such as autonomous vehicles cybersecurity privacy reform autonomous surgery and the immunity of Internet intermediaries Thank you for your support You can reach us on social media or visit our website at <http://jolttx.com>
