Bartlett, 1986-11 Compiled on the occasion of a conference on Surgical Education sponsored by the Section of General Surgery in June 1986 Pref      Medical Education at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1123-1995 Keir Waddington, 2003 Traces the evolution of medical education at Barts from its foundation in 1123 to the college s merger with The London Hospital and Queen Mary Westfield College in 1995 Medical Education at St Bartholomew s Hospital traces the evolution of medical education at Barts from its foundation in 1123 to the college's merger with The London and Queen Mary Westfield College in 1995. Drawing on the hospital's rich archives, it investigates how training was institutionalised and organised at Barts to explore the shifting nature of medical education between the eighteenth and late twentieth century. Medical Education at St Bartholomew's Hospital, in analysing the history of the medical college at Barts, explores the relationship between clinical study, science and the institution to look at the rise of the hospital student, the growth of laboratory medicine and the evolution of a research culture. It places the changing nature of training at Barts in the context of metropolitan and national developments to analyse the structure of medical training, the University of London and its impact on medical education and the experiences of the students and staff. Questions are asked about how academic medicine developed and about the relationship between training, the bedside, teaching hospitals and the politics of healthcare and higher education. In looking at these areas, existing notions of the development of medical education are problematised to provide a study that explores the nature of medical education at Barts and in London. KEIR WADDINGTON is lecturer in history at Cardiff University.
