Handbook of Communication Engagement brings together in one volume writings on both the theory and practice of engagement in today's organizations and societies. The expert contributors explore the philosophical theoretical and applied concepts of communication engagement as it pertains to building interaction and connections in a globalized networked society. The Handbook of Communication Engagement is comprehensive in scope with case studies of engagement from various disciplines including public relations, marketing, advertising, employee relations, education, public diplomacy, and politics. The authors advance the current thinking in engagement theory, strategy, and practice and provide a review of foundational and emerging research in engagement topics. The Handbook of Communication Engagement is an important text that provides an overview of the foundations and philosophies of engagement. It identifies the contexts of engagement relating to specific areas across government and corporations including CSR, consumer activism, diplomacy, digital, and social impact. It includes examples of contemporary engagement practice, presents applications of engagement and technology, offers insights on the future directions of engagement. The Handbook of Communication Engagement offers an essential reference for advanced undergraduate, graduate students, practitioners, and scholars from communication, media, advertising, public relations, public policy, and public diplomacy areas. The volume contains a compendium of the writings on the most recent advances on the theory and practice of engagement. Winner of the 2018 PRIDE Award for Innovation, Development, and Educational Achievement from the Public Relations Division of the National Communication Association.

Methods of Environmental Impact Assessment, Resources and Sustainable Development in the Arctic Chris Southcott, Frances Abele, David Natcher, Brenda Parlee, 2018-10-04 Over the past thirty years we have witnessed a demand for resources such as minerals, oil, and gas which is only set to increase. This book examines the relationship between Arctic communities and extractive resource development. With insights from leading thinkers in the field, the book examines this relationship to better understand what, if anything, can be done in order for the development of non-renewable resources to be of benefit to the long-term sustainability of these communities. The contributions synthesize circumpolar research on the topic of resource extraction in the Arctic and highlight areas that need further investigation such as the ability of northern communities to properly use current regulatory processes, fiscal arrangements, and benefit agreements to ensure the long-term sustainability of their culture, communities, and to avoid a new path dependency. This book provides an insightful summary of issues surrounding resource extraction in the Arctic and will be essential reading for anyone interested in environmental impact assessments, globalization, and Indigenous communities and the future of the Arctic region.

Valuing Freedoms Sabina Alkire, 2005 Part II proposes an alternative participatory method for systematically identifying valued changes in participants' capability sets. Three case studies of women's income generation activities in Pakistan: goat rearing, adult literacy, and rose cultivation. Contrast economic cost-benefit analysis of each activity with capable analysis. BOOK JACKET
