Community Partner Guide to Campus Collaborations Christine M. Cress, Stephanie T. Stokamer, Joyce P.

Kaufman, 2023-07-03 Interacting with colleges can be confusing and frustrating. We learned the hard way through trial and error over the years. This Guide has great strategies for developing effective collaborations from the outset so that resources are leveraged for education and improvement. Sheila Boys and Girls Club VERY strong and well-written chapters with lots of gold that I think community organizations will find very helpful. Melia Hands on Greater Portland. The format and visual cues make the Guide easy to scan for quick tips and ideas. Also, the information is comprehensive regarding research-based practices, but the writing is friendly and engaging for all non-profit sectors and community agencies. Lots of practical examples. Juan Immigrant Empowerment. Discover Campus Resources for Identifying Volunteers and Service Learners. Decode Confusing Language Terminology and Acronyms of Academe. Decipher Your Academic Partner's Goals for Community-Based Learning and Research. Devise Empowering Learning and Serving Experiences for Students and Clients. Design Sustainable and Enriching Relationships for Enhancing Communities. Based upon years of field experience, this Guide is addressed to you whether your non-profit has experience of working with university interns or volunteers but wants to deepen and increase the effectiveness of the relationship, whether your agency is starting to explore how to improve client services through a campus collaboration or whether you work for an NGO interested in partnering with universities across borders to effect positive change and draw attention to the challenges, resources, and needs of your community. This Guide offers insights and strategies to leverage student learning and community empowerment for the benefit of both parties. Recognizing both the possibilities and the pitfalls of community campus collaborations, it demystifies the often confusing terminology of education, explains how to locate the right individuals on campus, and addresses issues of mission expectations, for roles, tasks, training, supervision, and evaluation that can be fraught with miscommunication and misunderstanding. Most importantly, it provides a model for achieving full reciprocity in what can be an unbalanced relationship between community and campus partners so that all stakeholders can derive the maximum benefit from their collaboration. This Guide is also available in sets of six or twelve at reduced prices to facilitate its use for planning and for training of leaders engaged in partnerships. Community Engagement Classification John Saltmarsh, Mathew B. Johnson, 2018-03-31 The Carnegie Engagement Classification is designed to be a form of evidence-based documentation that a campus meets the criteria to be recognized as a community engaged institution. Editors John Saltmarsh and Mathew B. Johnson use their extensive experience working with the Carnegie Engagement Classification to offer a collection of resources for institutions that are interested in making a first time or reclassification application for this recognition. Contributors offer insight on approaches to collecting the materials needed for an application and strategies for creating a complete and successful application. Chapters include detailed descriptions of what happened on campuses that succeeded in their application attempts and even reflection from a campus that failed on their first application Readers can make use of worksheets at the end of each chapter to organize their own classification efforts

Community Practice in the Network Society Peter Day,Doug Schuler,2004-08-02 Around the world citizens in local communities are utilising ICTs to underpin the creation of a participatory and democratic vision of the network society Embedded in the richness and diversity of community practice a vision of a civil network society is emerging A society where ICTs are harnessed as tools to improve the quality of life and reflect the diversity of social networks where people are viewed as citizens not just as consumers and where heterogeneity is perceived as a strength rather than a weakness Community Practice in the Network Society looks at the broad context in which this is happening presents case studies of local projects from around the world and discusses community ICT research methodologies Not only does it highlight the symbiotic relationship between community ICT practice and research but it also provides evidence supporting the case for the development of more inclusive and participatory pathways to the network society

Reconceptualizing Faculty Development in Service-Learning/Community Engagement Becca Berkey,Emily Eddins Rountree,Patrick M. Green,Cara Meixner,2023-07-03 The role of educational developer in the realm of service learning and community engagement S LCE is multidimensional Given the potentially transformational nature for both faculty and students of the experiences and courses in whose design they may be directly or indirectly involved as well as their responsibility to the communities served by these initiatives they have to be particularly attentive to issues of identity values and roles As both practitioners and facilitators they are often positioned as third space professionals This edited volume provides educational developers and community engagement professionals an analysis of approaches to faculty development around service learning and community engagement Using an openly self reflective approach the contributors to this volume offer an array of examples and models as well as realistic strategies to empower readers to evolve their faculty development efforts in service learning and community engagement on their respective campuses It is also a call for recognition that the practice of S LCE needs to be institutionalized and improved The book further addresses the field s potential contributions to scholarship such as the scholarship of teaching and learning SoTL publicly engaged scholarship and collaborative inquiry among others The case studies provide an outline of program models and promising practices including an authentic analysis of the institutional context within which they operate the positionality of the practitioner scholars overseeing them the resources required and the evidence related to both successes and challenges of these approaches The contributed chapters are organized under four themes the landscape of faculty development and community engagement models of faculty development in S LCE challenges and opportunities in pedagogy and partnerships and engendering change in educational development
