Teaching Evidence-Based Writing: Fiction Leslie Blauman, 2016-09-19 One in a million Yes that s how rare it is to have so many write about reading strategies so beautifully put to use Each year Leslie Blauman guides her students to become highly skilled at supporting their thinking about texts and in Evidence Based Writing Fiction she shares her win win process Leslie combed the ELA standards and all her favorite books and built a lesson structure you can use in two ways with an entire text or with just the excerpts she s included in the book Addressing Evidence Character Theme Point of View Visuals Words and Structure each section includes Lessons you can use as teacher demonstrations or for guided practice with Best the Test tips on how to authentically teach the skills that show up on exams with the texts you teach Prompt Pages serve as handy references giving students the key questions to ask themselves as they read any text and consider how an author s meaning and structure combine Excerpts to Write About Pages feature carefully selected passages from novels short stories and picture books you already know and love and questions that require students to discover a text's literal and deeper meanings. Write About Reading Templates scaffold students to think about a text efficiently by focusing on its critical literary elements or text structure demands and help them rehearse for more extensive responses. Writing Tasks invite students to transform their notes into a more developed paragraph or essay with sufficiently challenging tasks geared for grades 6-8. And best of all, your students gain a confidence in responding to complex texts and ideas that will serve them well in school, on tests, and in any situation when they are asked, "What are you basing that on? Show me how you know."

Read, Talk, Write Laura Robb, 2016-09-16. This book reminds us why Laura Robb continues to be such an important voice in our field. She looks through kids' eyes and sees into their futures. Literary conversations don't just enrich kids' days; they offer young people gifts that keep on giving: the ability to take risks, exercise creativity, build empathy, and develop the ability to negotiate from the foreword by Harvey Smokey Daniels. When you get right down to it, literacy comes down to this: read, talk, write. But as every teacher knows, it can be hard for students to see and use these three moves in concert until now. In Read Talk Write, Laura Robb lays out the classroom structures that create the time and space for students to have productive talk and written discourse about texts. With Laura's guidance, you'll use short texts by Seymour Simon, Kathleen Krull, Priscilla Cummings, and other popular fiction and nonfiction authors to teach students how to analyze and converse about texts. Incorporate six kinds of talk into your instruction, including turn and talk, partner talks, and small group discussions. Use the wealth of in-book and online reproducibles to help students facilitate their own comprehension-building discussions. Select from 35 lessons that address literary elements and devices, text structures, and comprehension strategies, and then use them to launch student-led talk about any text you teach. Help your readers get in a read-talk-write flow and know how to move from reading to talking to writing to bring about deeper thinking. Achieve high levels of performance around inferring, comparing, and contrasting, summarizing, and synthesizing, and other key skills by way of classroom conversations that make these advanced levels the norm.
