Q. An engine room rating is assisting the duty engineer during a period of UMS operation. After completing the tasks they have been busy with the engineer and rating leave the engine room which is returned to UMS mode. The rating realises that an oil tank filling valve has been left open. What action should be taken?

☐ Just leave the valve open as it is unsafe to enter the engine room alone. The high alarm will sound to notify the engineer when the tank is full.

☐ Re-enter the engine room straight away and shut the valve.

☐ Inform the duty engineer immediately so that the engine room can be re-entered and the valve can be shut.

☐ Inform another crewmember that he is going to close the valve.
