The Complete Works of John L. Motley, Vol. 2 John L. Motley, 2016-06-25 Excerpt from The Complete Works of John L. Motley Vol 2 The Rise of the Dutch Republic a History The gentlemen who sent the letter were annoyed at the premature publicity which it seemed to have attained Orange had in vain solicited Count Aremberg to join the league and had quarreled with him in consequence 1 Egmont in the presence of Madame de Parma openly charged Aremberg with having divulged the secret which had been confided to him The count fiercely denied that he had uttered a syllable on the subject to a human being but added that any communication on his part would have been quite super uous while Egmont and his friends were daily boasting of what they were to accomplish Egmont reiterated the charge of a breach Of faith by Aremberg That nobleman replied by lav ing his hand upon his sword denouncing as liars all persons who should dare to charge him again with such an offense and offering to fight out the quarrel upon the instant Here again personal combat was with much difficulty averted 2 About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
