The short Getting Started lessons herein demonstrate just how easy this whole process is.

The Application Wizard can then create a full-featured application using the Clarion default application metaphor. We call this the browse-form metaphor, and it extends directly from the structure of your database. The application works like this: (1) The end user navigates the database—all or part of it, one data file or multiple related data files—by scrolling through a list box, within which each item represents one record. The window in which this takes place is called a "browse." (2) The end user selects a specific record in the list to perform an action, such as editing the data. This generally occurs in a separate window, in which the database fields appear in separate edit boxes. This is called an update "form." A form may also accept new data. (3) Optionally, the end user can look up
