of digital techniques such as GIS which were emerging to support the planning process In fact the predecessor term decision support systems DSS from which this unknown originator obviously defined PSS by analogy was coined as far back as the late 1970s in the management literature for a loose assemblage of techniques usually computer based which aided management decisions The term slowly entered the geographicallexicon as spatial decision support systems SDSS and this is probably first attributable to Lew Hopkins and Mark Armstrong who used it in a paper published in AutoCarto 7 in 1985 Hopkins and Armstrong 1985 ECEG2007-Proceedings of the 7th European Conference on e-Government Dan Remenyi, Understanding E-Government Vincent Homburg,2008-08-28 Governments these days often boast about the efficiency of their electronic systems Information communication technologies ICTs apparently allow public service to become cheaper faster and more democratic E government has become another buzzword the shining future of the public realm Critics claim however that ICTs potential for democratic renewal is hampered by ancient assumptions of how governments should function But which viewpoint is nearer the truth In this original and insightful volume Vincent Homburg demonstrates how the use form and impact of ICTs are in fact entwined within the socio political economic and institutional aspects already established by government and public administration Evangelical or fatalistic perspectives are discredited to show the different realities in which ICTs play a role in our daily lives Using case studies and vignettes from throughout Europe and the US the book analyzes what these new technologies actually do and how they are screened through varying layers of bureaucracy and convention This is a timely addition to our understanding of what is meant by e government It gets behind the political rhetoric Understanding E Government Information Systems in Public Administration will be key reading for all students of public administration political science organization theory and information systems Geography and Technology Stanley D. Brunn,Susan L. Cutter,James W.
