Cranford, 2012-10-11 This book serves to feed human nature with both a religious and literary mood It may bring the reader a little closer to an understanding of life's complexities or it may challenge the reader's own philosophical self as he or she discovers the unraveling of Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter The editor of the book which has been composed from his memory of an unknown student's work claims to have unearthed a rare discovery that may unveil a mystery that has puzzled the best of minds in the literary field for many years In the words of its author his purpose is clear I have thought to publish my interpretations of Hawthorne's novel so that those critics in the field of literature who will may have additional cause for which to expound their intelligence either in trying to better understand this mystery or to salvage the old cherished ambiguities by which the public brain is presently intoxicated If I am correct in only a few of my impressions hopefully the main ones we shall have to reappraise Hawthorne as a literary prophet who hoped for and predicted a future time when mankind would look more favorable upon the creation man Both the author and editor send the reader on a journey into the mind and heart of an American icon which have too long been misunderstood and underappreciated He asks the reader to drink deep from the depths of his or her own intuitive awakenings and encourages each to rediscover the man who created The Scarlet Letter In so doing one may see the vexations and conflicts in his own life as a dark necessity to be endured as in the character of his beloved Hester who speaks to the heart of every human and in behalf of our own human nature The Scarlet Letter Hawthorne, 2006-09 The scarlet letter. The house of the seven gables Nathaniel Hawthorne, 1902 Manhood and the American Renaissance David Leverenz, 2019-06-30

In the view of David Leverenz such nineteenth century American male writers as Emerson Hawthorne Melville Thoreau and Whitman were influenced more profoundly by the popular model of the entrepreneurial man of force than they were by their literary precursors and contemporaries Drawing on the insights of feminist theory gender studies psychoanalytical criticism and social history Manhood and the American Renaissance demonstrates that gender pressures and class conflicts played as critical a role in literary creation for the male writers of nineteenth century America as they did for the women writers Leverenz interprets male American authors in terms of three major ideologies of manhood linked to the social classes in the Northeast patrician artisan and entrepreneurial He asserts that the older ideologies of patrician gentility and of artisan independence were being challenged from 1820 to 1860 by the new middle class ideology of competitive individualism The male writers of the American Renaissance patrician almost without exception in their backgrounds and self expectations were fascinated yet horrified by the aggressive materialism and the rivalry for dominance they witnessed in the undeferential new men In close readings of the works both of well known male literary figures and of then popular authors such as Richard Henry Dana Jr and Francis Parkman Leverenz discovers a repressed center of manhood beset by fears of humiliation and masochistic fantasies He discerns different patterns in the works of Whitman with his artisan s background and Frederick Douglass who rose from artisan freedom to entrepreneurial power Emphasizing the interplay of class and gender Leverenz also considers how women viewed manhood He concludes that male writers portrayed manhood as a rivalry for dominance but contemporary female writers saw it as patriarchy Two chapters contrast the work of the genteel writers Sarah Hale and Caroline Kirkland with the evangelical works of Susan Warner and Harriet Beecher Stowe A bold and imaginative work Manhood and the American Renaissance will enlighten and inspire controversy among all students of American literature nineteenth century American history and the relation of gender and literature The Complete Writings of Nathaniel Hawthorne: The scarlet letter Nathaniel Hawthorne, 1900
