A compelling book on an often overlooked topic first edition was highly regarded and proved a useful examination of this classic American ideal      Labor and the Class Idea in the United States and Canada Barry Eidlin, 2018-05-03 Why are unions weaker in the US than in Canada two otherwise similar countries This difference has shaped politics policy and levels of inequality Conventional wisdom points to differences in political cultures party systems and labor laws But Barry Eidlin s systematic analysis of archival and statistical data shows the limits of conventional wisdom and presents a novel explanation for the cross border difference He shows that it resulted from different ruling party responses to worker upsurge during the Great Depression and World War II Paradoxically US labor s long term decline resulted from what was initially a more pro labor ruling party response while Canadian labor s relative long term strength resulted from a more hostile ruling party response These struggles embedded the class idea more deeply in policies institutions and practices than in the US In an age of growing economic inequality and broken systems of political representation Eidlin s analysis offers insight for those seeking to understand these trends as well as those seeking to change them      The Social History of the American Family Marilyn J. Excellence vs. Equality Allan C. Ornstein, 2015-11-06 Excellence vs Equality Can Society Achieve Both Goals explores the issues faced by societies attempting to preserve democratic ideals and the common good in an era of incommensurate wealth and opportunity. As differences in advantage and ability affect the relationships between institutions and the people who comprise them, the book argues that political and social compromise is needed to prevent economic inequality from threatening the well being and mobility of the less able and less fortunate. Topics include globalization, technology, innovation, talent, and meritocracy; higher education; big business; labor unions; and social justice within educational and workplace settings. The author raises perennial and ever prescient questions regarding how to balance excellence and equality and how to reduce inequality around the world.

Firsthand Keith Gandal, 2024-07-23 Firsthand is an exploration, both suspenseful and comic, of the creative process in research writing. The book takes the reader through the ins and outs of a specific research journey: from combing through libraries and archives to the intellectual challenges involved with processing information that contradicts established ideas. More fundamentally, it addresses the somewhat mysterious portion of the intellectual process: the creative and serendipitous aspects involved in arriving at a fruitful research question in the first place. Keith Gandal combines this scholarly detective story with a comic personal narrative about how a midlife crisis accidentally sent him on a journey to write a research monograph that many in his profession, including at times himself, were dubious about. While researching how Hemingway, Fitzgerald, and Faulkner faced their forgotten crises of masculinity, Gandal discovers that his own crisis is instrumental to his creative process. Incorporating stories from Gandal's comic romp through the hyper-competitive world of middle-aged men's tennis, adopting pitbulls, and discussing Michel Foucault, Firsthand gives readers an inside look at how to acquire accurate knowledge about the world, about history, and about oneself.

International Deficit Thinking Richard R. Valencia, 2019-12-06 International Deficit Thinking: Educational Thought and Practice explores the incontrovertible reality of the persistent and pervasive academic achievement gap in many countries between marginalized students, primarily of color, and their economically advantaged White counterparts. For example, International Deficit Thinking discusses the cases of low socioeconomic Black and Mexican American students in the United States; Indigenous Māori students in New Zealand; and immigrant Moroccan and Turkish pupils in Belgium. The predominant theoretical perspective that has been advanced to explain the school failure of marginalized students is the deficit thinking paradigm: a parsimonious, endogenous, and pseudoscientific model that blames such students as the makers of their own school failure. Deficit thinking asserts that the low academic achievement of many marginalized students is due to their limited intellectual ability, poor academic achievement motivation, and being raised in dysfunctional families and cultures. Drawing from, in part, critical race theory, systemic inequality analysis, and colonialism/postcolonialism, award-winning author and scholar Richard R. Valencia examines deficit thinking in education in 16 countries, e.g., Canada, Peru, Australia, England, India, South Africa. He seeks to document and debunk deficit thinking as an interpretation for school failure of marginalized
