A Stranger's Journey David Mura, 2018-08-01 Long recognized as a master teacher at writing programs like VONA the Loft and the Stonecoast MFA with A Stranger's Journey David Mura has written a book on creative writing that addresses our increasingly diverse American literature Mura argues for a more inclusive and expansive definition of craft particularly in relationship to race even as he elucidates timeless rules of narrative construction in fiction and memoir His essays offer technique focused readings of writers such as James Baldwin ZZ Packer Maxine Hong Kingston Mary Karr and Garrett

Hongo while making compelling connections to Mura's own life and work as a Japanese American writer. In A Stranger's Journey, Mura poses two central questions. The first involves identity: How is writing an exploration of who one is and one's place in the world? Mura examines how the myriad identities in our changing contemporary canon have led to new challenges regarding both craft and pedagogy. Here, like Toni Morrison's Playing in the Dark or Jeff Chang's Who We Be, A Stranger's Journey breaks new ground in our understanding of the relationship between the issues of race, literature, and culture. The book's second central question involves structure: How does one tell a story? Mura provides clear, insightful narrative tools that any writer may use, taking in techniques from fiction, screenplays, playwriting, and myth. Through this process, Mura candidly explores the newly evolved aesthetic principles of memoir and how questions of identity occupy a central place in contemporary memoir.

Mission High Kristina Rizga, 2015-08-04 This book is a godsend a moving portrait for anyone wanting to go beyond the simplified labels and metrics and really understand an urban high school and its highly individual resilient eager and brilliant students and educators Dave Eggers co founder 826 National and ScholarMatch Darrell is a reflective brilliant young man who never thought of himself as a good student He always struggled with his reading and writing skills Darrell s father a single parent couldn t afford private tutors By the end of middle school Darrell s grades and his confidence were at an all time low Then everything changed When education journalist Kristina Rizga first met Darrell at Mission High School he was taking AP calculus class writing a ten page research paper and had received several college acceptance letters And Darrell was not an exception More than 80 percent of Mission High seniors go to college every year even though the school teaches large numbers of English learners and students from poor families So why has the federal government been threatening to close Mission High and schools like it across the country The United States has been on a century long road toward increased standardization in our public schools which resulted in a system that reduces the quality of education to primarily one metric standardized test scores According to this number Mission High is a low performing school even though its college enrollment graduation attendance rates and student surveys are some of the best in the country The qualities that matter the most in learning skills like critical thinking intellectual engagement resilience empathy self management and cultural flexibility can't be measured by multiple choice questions designed by distant testing companies Rizga argues but they can be detected by skilled teachers in effective personalized and humane classrooms that work for all students not just the most motivated ones Based on four years of reporting with unprecedented access the unforgettable intimate stories in these pages throw open the doors to America's most talked about and arguably least understood public school classrooms where the largely invisible voices of our smart resilient students and their committed educators can offer a clear and hopeful blueprint for what it takes to help all students succeed

Reclaiming English Language Arts Methods Courses Jory Brass, Allen

Webb, 2014-09-04 Reclaiming English Language Arts Methods Courses showcases innovative work in teacher education that fosters teachers' capacities as reflective practitioners and public intellectuals, extends traditional boundaries of methods courses on teaching the English language arts literacy of children and young adult literature, and embodies democratic and critical politics that go beyond the reductive economic aims and traditional classroom practices sanctioned by educational policies and corporate educational reforms. Featuring leading and emerging scholars in English language arts teacher education, each chapter provides rich and concrete examples of elementary and secondary methods courses rooted in contemporary research and theory, online resources, and honest appraisals of the possibilities, tensions, and limits of doing teacher education differently in a top-down time of standards-based education, high-stakes testing, teacher assessment, and neoliberal education reforms. This book offers important resources and support for teacher educators and graduate students to explore alternative visions for aligning university methods courses with current trends in English and cultural studies, critical sociocultural literacy, new literacies, and Web 2.0 tools and teaching the English language arts in multiethnic, multilingual, and underserved urban communities.
