- Furthermore, Carson will keep a log of every record you view, so only those records created in the year you, however, logging in is used for various purposes, so you can explore in better with your provider's patients.
- To access medical records, you must first log into the All Health network through some the following methods: All computers at All Health Plaza, Bedford, and Cheshamington are now on the AllHealth network.
- You can use <http://www.healthinc.org> to log in from a computer and use the AllHealth network. To do this, you must also use All Health's Multi-Point Authentication System.
- Once you log into CCHLinc, the applications, created from there will need the data provided to you. The data provided this is: <http://www.healthinc.org/PowerChart/ViewOnly>
- Please note: your screen looks very different than the screenshots. There are many different view types in Carson, so your screen may vary.
- After logging into CCHLinc, there are two ways you can see the medical records:
 - 1. Use CarsonLinc to see lab results, radiology reports, and transcriptions. CarsonLinc is maintained by AllHealth Information Health Information Exchange. Records are not logging in through All Health, so you only see records in CarsonLinc created at All Health.
