Capital Manufacturing Mining Formation Financing:

Capital in Manufacturing and Mining Daniel Barnett Creamer, Sergei B. Dobrovolsky, Israel Borenstein, 2015-12-08 In this volume in the NBER series on capital formation and financing the authors show with supporting figures two major trends in mining and manufacturing The first is that this sector had a rate of growth significantly higher than that of the economy as a whole The total capital assets of this sector increased fifteenfold from 1880 to 1948 while the total stock of all tangible wealth in the United States increased only about sixfold The second trend is a marked diversity among industries in the rate of growth over the period and in the time pattern of that rate The authors advance a number of explanatory hypotheses about the significance of their findings Originally published in 1960 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Capital in Manufacturing and Mining Daniel Creamer, Sergei P. Dobrovolsky, Israel Borenstein, Martin Bernstein, 1960 War-time Manufacturing Plant Expansion Privately Financed, 1940-1945 United States. Civilian Production Administration, 1946 Capital in Manufacturing and Mining Daniel Creamer, Israel Borenstein, Sergei P. Dobrovolsky, 1960 Trends in Government Financing Morris Albert Copeland, 2015-12-08 The author indicates that war expenditures have been the most important single cause of the increase in the federal debt with government countercyclical expenditures second Increase in state and local debts is found to be largely due to the technological revolution Originally published in 1961 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Materials Prepared in Connection with the Study of Employment, Growth, and Price Levels for Consideration by the Joint Economic Committee United States. Congress. Joint Economic Committee, 1959 Coordination and Information Naomi R. Lamoreaux, Daniel M. G. Raff, 2007-12-01 Case studies that examine how firms coordinate economic activity in the face of asymmetric information information not equally available to all parties are the focus of this volume In an ideal world the market would be the optimal provider of coordination but in the real world of incomplete information some activities are better coordinated in other ways Divided into three parts this book addresses coordination within firms at the borders of firms and outside firms providing a picture of the overall incidence and logic of economic coordination The case studies drawn from the late nineteenth and early twentieth century when the modern business enterprise was evolving address such issues as the relationship between coordination mechanisms and production techniques the logic of coordination in industrial districts and the consequences of regulation for coordination Continuing the work on information and organization presented in the influential Inside the Business Enterprise this book provides material for business historians and economists who want to study the development of the dissemination of information and the coordination of economic activity within and between firms
