George Bernard Shaw, 2018-08-13 Captain Brassbound s Conversion Bernard Shaw ACT I On the heights overlooking the harbor of Mogador a seaport on the west coast of Morocco the missionary in the coolness of the late afternoon is following the precept of Voltaire by cultivating his garden He is an elderly Scotchman spiritually a little weatherbeaten as having to navigate his creed in strange waters crowded with other craft but still a convinced son of the Free Church and the North African Mission with a faithful brown eye and a peaceful soul Physically a wiry small knit man well tanned clean shaven with delicate resolute features and a twinkle of mild humor He wears the sun helmet and pagri the neutral tinted spectacles and the white canvas Spanish sand shoes of the modern Scotch missionary but instead of a cheap tourist s suit from Glasgow a grey flannel shirt with white collar a green sailor knot tie with a cheap pin in it he wears a suit of clean white linen acceptable in color if not in cut to the Moorish mind The view from the garden includes much Atlantic Ocean and a long stretch of sandy coast to the south swept by the north east trade wind and scantily nourishing a few stunted pepper trees mangy palms and tamarisks The prospect ends as far as the land is concerned in little hills that come nearly to the sea rudiments these of the Atlas Mountains The missionary having had daily opportunities of looking at this seascape for thirty years or so pays no heed to it being absorbed in trimming a huge red geranium bush to English eyes unnaturally big which with a dusty smilax or two is the sole product of his pet flower bed He is sitting to his work on a Moorish stool In the middle of the garden there is a pleasant seat in the shade of a tamarisk tree The house is in the south west corner of the garden and the geranium bush in the north east corner We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience     The Dramatic Works of Bernard Shaw
