Naval Training Command,1972 Marine Navigation 1 : Piloting Richard R. Hobbs,2012-12-06 Throughout the history of warfare at sea navigation has been an important basic determinant of victory Occasionally new members of the fraternity of the sea will look upon navigation as a chore to be tolerated only as long as it takes to find someone else to assume the responsibility In my experience such individuals never make good naval officers Commander Hobbs has succeeded in bringing together the information and practical skills required for that individual who would take the first step down the road toward becoming a competent marine navigator At the outset of this book the author stresses the necessity for safe navigation but there is another basic tenet of sea warfare that this book serves The best weapons system man has ever devised cannot function effectively unless it knows where it is in relation to the real world where it is in relation to the enemy and where the enemy is in relation to the real world Not all defeats can be attributed to this lack of information but no victories have been won by those who did not know where they were Back Bearings Eric Cropper,2010-06-15 Eric Croppers RAF career started in 1943 and ended in 1968 It covered a period when the navigation of aircraft changed from astro dead reckoning and drift bearings all plotted by pencil on charts to press button radio and satellite information that can instantly pinpoint a position anywhere on the planet to within 5 meters The then vital skills of a good navigator are now mostly redundant Ships aircraft trucks and cars seldom use maps let alone carry a navigator This autobiography by one of the RAFs top exponents of both the ancient and modern forms of the art explains in considerable detail how this rapid and revolutionary improvement occurred in the air After his initial training Eric started his operational career as navigator in a No 103 Squadron Avro Lancaster During his tour on 7 July 1944 the squadron took part in a raid on Caen Immediately after releasing their bombs the aircraft was struck from astern losing the tail gunner and turret and a large part of the tailplane Having regained control from a 3 000 feet dive they nursed the stricken aircraft back to England where it crash landed at Tangmere They later discovered that they had been hit by another Lancaster Having completed his tour of operations Eric was posted as an instructor completing the Staff Navigator Course From 1946 to 1948 he moved to HQ Bomber Command on the Air Staff and then moved to the Empire Air Navigation School as a specialist Navigator His later career included research and development at RAE Farnborough an exchange posting with the USAF in Alaska a staff position at RAF Cranwell Station Commander at RAF Gan in the Maldives the command of a transport squadron and a Staff position at the RAF College of Air Warfare This is a fascinating memoir of one of the RAF's senior navigational experts that explains both service life and the revolution in navigational techniques that took place during his service career History Year by Year DK,2024-03-05
