The Photographic Uncanny Claire Raymond,2019-11-23 This book argues for a renewed understanding of the fundamentally uncanny quality of the medium of photography It especially makes the case for the capacity of certain photographs precisely through their uncanniness to contest structures of political and social dominance The uncanny as a quality that unsettles the perception of home emerges as a symptom of modern and contemporary society and also as an aesthetic apparatus by which some key photographs critique the hegemony of capitalist and industrialist domains. The book's historical scope is large, beginning with William Henry Fox Talbot and closing with contemporary indigenous photographer Bear Allison and contemporary African American photographer Devin Allen. Through close readings, exegesis of individual photographs, and careful deployment of contemporary political and aesthetic theory, The Photographic Uncanny argues for a re-envisioning of the political capacity of photography to expose the haunted, homeless condition of modernity. Picturing the Past Bonnie Brennen, Hanno Hardt, 1999 Explores the relations between photo journalism and history investigating how photographs shape both what we remember and how we remember. This book provides insight into how photographs generate a sense of national community and reinforce prevailing social, cultural, and political values.

Photography's Orientalism Ali Behdad, Luke Gartlan, 2013-10-01 The Middle East played a critical role in the development of photography as a new technology and an art form. Likewise, photography was instrumental in cultivating and maintaining Europe's distinctively Orientalist vision of the Middle East. As new advances enhanced the versatility of the medium, nineteenth-century photographers were able to mass-produce images to incite and satisfy the demands of the region's burgeoning tourist industry and the appetites of armchair travelers in Europe. In this way, the evolution of modern photography fueled an interest in visual contact with the rest of the world. Photography's Orientalism offers the first in-depth cultural study of the works of European and non-European photographers active in the Middle East and India, focusing on the relationship between photographic, literary, and historical representations of this region and beyond. The essays explore the relationship between art and politics by considering the connection between the European presence there and aesthetic representations produced by traveling and resident photographers, thereby contributing to how the history of photography is understood.

Past Looking Michael Ann Holly, 1996 Michael Ann Holly asserts that historical interpretation of the pictorial arts is always the intellectual product of a dynamic exchange between past and present. Recent theory emphasizes the subjectivity of the historian and the ways in which any interpretation betrays the presence of an interpreter. In Past Looking, she challenges those who view arguing that historical objects of representational art are actively engaged in prefiguring the kinds of histories that can be written about them. Holly directs her attention to early modern works of visual art and their rhetorical roles in legislating the kind of tales told about them by a few classic cultural commentaries of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Burckhardt's synchronic vision of the Italian Renaissance, W. Ifflin's exemplification of the Baroque, Schapiro's and Freud's dispute over the meanings of Leonardo's art, and Panofsky's exegesis of the disguised symbolism of Northern Renaissance painting. Feeling Photography Elspeth H. Brown, Thy Phu, 2014-09-09 This innovative collection demonstrates the profound effects of feeling on our experiences and understanding of photography. It includes essays on the tactile nature of photos, the relation of photography to sentiment and intimacy, and the ways that affect pervades the photographic archive. Concerns associated with the affective turn, intimacy, alterity, and ephemerality, as well as queerness, modernity, and loss run through the essays At the same time the contributions are informed by developments in critical race theory postcolonial studies and feminist theory As the contributors bring affect theory to bear on photography some interpret the work of contemporary artists such as Catherine Opie Tammy Rae Carland Christian Boltanski Marcelo Brodsky Zoe Leonard and Rea Tajiri Others look back whether to the work of the American Pictorialist F Holland Day or to the discontent masked by the smiles of black families posing for cartes de visite in a Kodak marketing campaign With more than sixty photographs including twenty in color this collection changes how we see think about and feel photography past and present Contributors Elizabeth Abel Elspeth H Brown Kimberly Juanita Brown Lisa Cartwright Lily Cho Ann Cvetkovich David L Eng Marianne Hirsch Thy Phu Christopher Pinney Marlis Schweitzer Dana Seitler Tanya Sheehan Shawn Michelle Smith Leo Spitzer Diana Taylor

Post45 Vs. The World: Literary Perspectives on the Global Contemporary William G. Welty,2023-01-31 Much of the work done on the Post45 literary field carries an implicitly Americanist perspective Even the name of the field suggests a certain literary history with certain assumptions and blind spots about national spaces identities and histories But what would Post45 look like when considered from outside of the United States How do the current contours of the field exclude certain voices either in the United States or elsewhere in the world And how would such new perspectives shift the beginning and possible endpoint of that literary period What new narratives of the contemporary emerge if we begin telling the story in a different year or from a different national or global perspective This collection attempts to re frame the discussions in Post45 by engaging with non American writers texts and perspectives Additionally productive conversations emerge by attempting to think of canonical American writers like Mark Twain and Ishmael Reed from other national and global perspectives The authors consider both the ways texts themselves as well as their reception histories approach and challenge our understandings of the contemporary Ultimately the collection interrogates prevailing narratives of history culture identity and space within the Post45 field In so doing it re considers the historical periodization of the field which currently covers approximately 75 years of literary history The resulting essays thus work towards a new intertwined narrative about what defines the contemporary and how national and global literatures fit into that moment of world history

Found Sculpture and Photography from Surrealism to Contemporary Art

Julia Kelly,2017-07-05 Taking its departure point from the 1933 surrealist photographs of involuntary sculptures by Brassa nd Dal Found Sculpture and Photography from Surrealism to Contemporary Art offers fresh perspectives on the sculptural object by relating it to both surrealist concerns with chance and the crucial role of photography in framing the everyday This collection of essays questions the nature of sculptural practice looking to forms of production and reproduction that blur the boundaries between things that are made and things that are found One of the book s central themes is the interplay of presence and absence in sculpture as it is highlighted disrupted or multiplied through photography s indexical nature The essays examine the surrealist three dimensional object its relation to and transformation through photographs as well as the enduring legacies of such concerns for the artwork s materiality and temporality in performance and conceptual practices from the 1960s through the present Found Sculpture and Photography sheds new light on the shifts in status of the art object challenging the specificity of visual practices pursuing a radical interrogation of agency in modern and contemporary practices and exploring the boundaries between art and everyday life

Philosophy of Emerging Media Juliet Floyd, James Everett Katz, 2016 The term emerging media responds to the big data now available as a result of the larger role digital media play in everyday life as well as the notion of emergence that has grown across the architecture of science and technology over the last two decades with increasing imbrication The permeation of everyday life by emerging media is evident ubiquitous and destined to accelerate No longer are images institutions social networks thoughts acts of communication emotions and speech the media by means of which we express ourselves in daily life linked to clearly demarcated stable entities and contexts Instead the loci of meaning within which these occur shift and evolve quickly emerging in far reaching ways we are only beginning to learn and bring about This volume's purpose is to develop broaden and spark future philosophical discussion of emerging media and their ways of shaping and reshaping the habitus within which everyday lives are to be understood Drawing from the history of philosophy ideas of influential thinkers in the past intellectual path makers on the contemporary scene offer new philosophical perspectives laying the groundwork for future work in philosophy and in media studies On diverse topics such as identity agency reality mentality time aesthetics representation consciousness materiality emergence and human nature the questions addressed here consider the extent to which philosophy should or should not take us to be facing a fundamental transformation
