Camping With The President:

Camping with the President Ginger Wadsworth, 2009-09-01 Imagine a U S president on a camping trip It seems unlikely today but in May 1903 President Theodore Roosevelt dismissed his Secret Service men to go camping with John Muir the world famous naturalist For three glorious nights and four days in California s Yosemite National Park the two men talked about birds giant sequoia trees glaciers as well as the importance of preserving wilderness for future generations They slept under the stars built blazing campfires and enjoyed the beauty and the uniqueness of the area Setting aside new national parks and monuments became one of the cornerstones of Roosevelt s presidency and was a direct result of this camping trip Author Ginger Wadsworth and illustrator Karen Dugan carefully researched this true story relying on primary documents and working closely with experts in the field

Camping with President Roosevelt John Burroughs, 2015-06-10 At the time I made the trip to Yellowstone Park with President Roosevelt in the spring of 1903 I promised some friends to write up my impressions of the President and of the Park but I have been slow in getting around to it The President himself having the absolute leisure and peace of the White House wrote his account of the trip nearly two years ago But with the stress and strain of my life at Slabsides administering the affairs of so many of the wild creatures of the woods about me I have not till this blessed season found the time to put on record an account of the most interesting thing I saw in that wonderful land which of course was the President himself Camping and Tramping with President Roosevelt John Burroughs, 1907

The Atlantic Monthly , 1906

Dinner with the President Alex Prud'homme, 2024-02-20 A wonderfully entertaining

often surprising history of presidential taste from the grim meals eaten by Washington and his starving troops at Valley Forge to Trump s fast food burgers and Biden s ice cream what they ate why they ate it and what it tells us about the state of the nation from the coauthor of Julia Child s bestselling memoir My Life in France A beautifully written book about how the presidential palate has helped shape America Fascinating Stanley Tucci Some of the most significant moments in American history have occurred over meals as U S presidents broke bread with friends or foes Thomas Jefferson s nation building receptions in the new capital Washington D C Ulysses S Grant s state dinner for the king of Hawaii Teddy Roosevelt s groundbreaking supper with Booker T Washington Richard Nixon s practiced use of chopsticks to pry open China Jimmy Carter s cakes and pies that fueled a d tente between Israel and Egypt at Camp David Here Alex Prud homme invites readers into the White House kitchen to reveal the sometimes curious tastes of twenty six of America s most influential presidents and the ways their choices affected food policy around the world And the White House menu grew over time from simple eggs and black coffee for Abraham Lincoln during the Civil War to jelly beans and enchiladas for Ronald Reagan and arugula for Barack Obama What our leaders say about food touches on everything from our nation s shifting diet and local politics to global trade war class gender race and so much more Prud homme also details overlooked figures like George Washington s enslaved chef Hercules Posey whose meals burnished the president's reputation before the cook narrowly escaped to freedom and pioneering First Ladies such as Dolley Madison and Jackie Kennedy. As he weaves these stories together, Prudhomme shows that food is not just fuel when it is served to the most powerful people in the world. It is a tool of communication, a lever of power and persuasion, and a symbol of the nation. Included are ten authentic recipes for favorite presidential dishes such as Martha Washington's Preserved Cherries, Abraham Lincoln's Gingerbread Men, William H. Taft's Billy Bi Mussel Soup, Franklin D. Roosevelt's Reverse Martini, Lady Bird Johnson's Pedernales River Chili.

Camping with President Roosevelt John Burroughs, 2015-05-08 regions so a kind of satanic element in men and animals, an underlying devilishness crops out, and we have the border ruffian and the bucking broncho. The President told of an Englishman on a hunting trip in the West who, being an expert horseman at home, scorned the idea that he could not ride any of their grass-fed ponies. So they gave him a bucking broncho. He was soon lying on the ground, much stunned. When he could speak, he said, "I should not have minded him; you know, but the idea is dead."

Camping and Tramping with Roosevelt John Burroughs, 2012-06-19 President Theodore Roosevelt's love of natural history is celebrated in two sketches written by renowned naturalist John Burroughs. The friends shared a two-week trip to Yellowstone in the spring of 1903 in order to observe the wildlife and geologic wonders of America's first national park. The desire was to commune with nature, not to hunt. "I will not fire a gun in the Park; then I shall have no explanations to make," President Roosevelt said. While they had guides, the president was unaccompanied by secret service, personal physician, or secretaries and remarkably took an 18-mile trek through hard country completely by himself on one occasion. He came back as fresh as when he started.

What the Presidents Read Elizabeth Goodenough, Marilyn Olson, 2024-12-19 A childhood book is much more than just a story for the presidents; it may represent a turn in the course of history. What the Presidents Read catalogs presidents' early reading, accompanied by commentary from eye-witness reporters, historians, journalists, curators, biographers, literary scholars, U.S. presidents, and White House families. Together, they offer non-specialists brief, surprising insights. Readers will jump at the chance to compare their own favorite books as they learn how these publications resonated with national myths and leaders in the making.

John Burroughs and the Place of Nature James Perrin Warren, 2010-02-25 This study situates John Burroughs together with John Muir and Theodore Roosevelt as one of a trinity of thinkers who, between the Civil War and World War I, defined and secured a place for nature in mainstream American culture. Though not as well known today, Burroughs was the most popular American nature writer of his time. Prolific and consistent, he published scores of essays in influential, large-circulation magazines and was often compared to Thoreau. Unlike Thoreau, however, whose reputation grew posthumously, Burroughs was a celebrity during his lifetime; he wrote more than thirty books, enjoyed a continual high level of visibility, and saw his work taught widely in public schools. James Perrin Warren shows how Burroughs helped guide urban and suburban middle class readers back to nature during a time of intense industrialization and urbanization Warren discusses Burroughs s connections not only to Muir and Roosevelt but also to his forebears Emerson Thoreau and Whitman By tracing the complex philosophical creative and temperamental lineage of these six giants Warren shows how in their friendships and rivalries Burroughs Muir and Roosevelt made the high literary romanticism of Emerson Thoreau and Whitman relevant to late nineteenth and early twentieth century Americans At the same time Warren offers insights into the rise of the nature essay as a genre the role of popular magazines as shapers and conveyors of public values and the dynamism of place in terms of such opposed concepts as retreat and engagement nature and culture and wilderness and civilization Because Warren draws on Burroughs s personal critical and philosophical writings as well as his better known narrative essays readers will come away with a more informed sense of Burroughs as a literary naturalist and a major early practitioner of ecocriticism John Burroughs and the Place of Nature helps extend the map of America s cultural landscape during the period 1870 1920 by recovering an unfairly neglected practitioner of one of his era s most effective forces for change nature writing Afoot and Afloat John Burroughs,1913 Biographical sketch of John Burroughs by Clifton Johnson A summer boating trip From Pepacton and other sketches Camping with the President From the Atlantic monthly for May 1906 A tramp in the Catskills From Birch browsings in Wake robin Men and Rubber Harvey Samuel Firestone,Samuel Crowther,1926
