Night of the Living Demon Slayer Angie Fox, 2015-05-28 Lizzie Brown is all for letting the good times roll until a dark voodoo church rises up in the bayou outside of New Orleans Now ritual fires are burning long into the night and the dead are having a hard time staying that way Lizzie goes in undercover to put a stop to the madness Good thing she can count on her sexy shape shifter husband as well as her Grandma's gang of biker witches Too bad nobody's watching her trusty dog Pirate who has become way too friendly with the phantom haunting a long forgotten Victorian seance room Secrets and spirits abound Nothing is what it seems And when legions of the dead threaten the city there may be no stopping them A fast savvy hilarious romp through a real world populated by paranormal mischief Fox is one of my new favorite paranormal authors Pop Syndicate This book is a pleasure to read It is fun humorous and reminiscent of Charlaine Harris or Kim Harrison's books Sacramento Book Review

The Ghost Hunter's Road Book John Harries, 1968 John Harries records the authenticated stories and experiences he has gathered after many hundreds of miles of ghost hunting through England Wales and Scotland From dust jacket Ghostly Phenomena Elliott O'Donnell, 2017-02-14 I have from time to time witnessed many manifestations which I believe to have been superphysical both from the peculiarity of their properties and from the effects their presence invariably produced on me an effect I cannot associate with anything physical One of the first occult phenomena I remember appeared to me when I was about five years of age I was then living in a town in the West of England and had according to the usual custom been put to bed at six o'clock I had spent a very happy day playing with my favourite toys soldiers and not being in the least degree tired was amusing myself with planning a fresh campaign for the following morning when I suddenly noticed that the bedroom door which I distinctly remembered my nurse carefully latching was slowly opening Thinking this was very curious but without the slightest suspicion of ghosts I sat up in the bed and watched The door continued to open and at last I caught sight of something so extraordinary that my guilty conscience at once associated it with the Devil with regard to whom I distinctly recollected to have spoken that afternoon in a sceptical and I frankly admit very disrespectful manner But far from feeling the proximity of that heat which all those who profess authority on Satanic matters ascribe to Satan I felt decidedly cold so cold indeed that my hands grew numb and my teeth chattered At first I only saw two light glittering eyes that fixed themselves on me with an expression of diabolical glee but I was soon able to perceive that they were set in a huge flat face covered with fulsome looking yellow spots about the size of a threepenny bit I do not remember noticing any of the other features save the mouth which was large and gaping The body to which the head was attached was quite nude and covered all over with spots similar to those on the face I cannot recall any arms though I have vivid recollections of two thick and to all appearances jointless legs by the use of which it left the doorway and gliding noiselessly over the carpet approached an empty bed placed in a parallel position to my own There it halted and thrusting its misshapen head forward it fixed its malevolent eyes on me with a penetrating stare On this occasion I was far less frightened than on any of my subsequent experiences with the occult Why I cannot say for the manifestation was certainly one of the most hideous I have ever seen My curiosity however was far greater than my fear and I kept asking myself what the Thing was and why it was there
