Designing Low Carbon Societies in Landscapes Nobukazu Nakagoshi, Jhonamie A. Mabuhay, 2014-05-09 This book focuses on three major means of achieving a low carbon society conservation of the ecosystem complex changes of arrangement of landscapes and creation of biodiversity There are specific countermeasures to be taken for carbon absorption in the three types of landscapes urban cultural and natural because their carbon balances differ Urban landscapes are promising sites because they have the potential for greening and the creation of biodiversity Cultural landscapes in the tropics had not been actively researched until recently but this book now presents a collection of several cases focused on those areas Natural landscapes had existed in abundance in developing countries later nature protection areas were designated to coexist with development Now however developmental pressure has penetrated into those nature protection areas and landscape ecological projects are urgently required to preserve them As a result of global warming abnormal weather phenomena including super typhoons have occurred frequently in recent years The major underlying cause is the higher concentration of greenhouse gases released by human activities As well major natural absorbers of CO₂ such as forests wetlands and coral reefs are shrinking and the human impact is causing the ecological balance to deteriorate Controlling CO₂ emissions and expanding the CO₂ absorbers are keys to reducing total CO₂ Low carbon societies can be established by maintaining the original CO₂ balance through integration of multiple tools with contributions from diverse fields such as physics and chemistry physiology and humanities and education On the basis of an international consensus the environment must be protected no matter what sacrifices are required As this book demonstrates achieving a low carbon society is a top priority and landscape conservation is the first step in ecological research toward that goal

Leading from the Roots Kathleen E. Allen, 2018-06-05 Can we design organizations in a way that creates a space where employees the organization and the larger community all thrive And if so where can we go for inspiration to help us achieve this goal In a time of volatile and complex uncertainty it is time to learn the lessons that nature has compiled from 3 8 billion years of research and development Nature is an interdependent dynamic and living system just like today s organizations and communities Kathleen Allen uses nature as a model mentor and muse to rethink how leadership is practiced today Leading from the Roots takes nature as a source of inspiration to help organizations see a new way of leading and designing workplace structure applying the generous framework found in mature ecologies to human organizations Kathleen Allen helps shift assumptions practices structures and processes of organizations to become more resilient and nourishing for all and along the way design the way out of workplace dysfunction and drama Leading from the Roots provides a powerful new way of thinking about organizations as living systems and delivers practical leadership frameworks for individuals to learn how to unleash the energy and create innovative effective teams Anne Boneparte CEO Appthority This book is a must read for organizational leaders who are not only committed to their mission but equally to creating a workplace that attracts and retains the brightest and the best professionals fully enabled to meet that mission Caryl Stern President CEO UNICEF USA
