As more attention is devoted to the increasing and complex socio ecological issues facing the planet new insights and new ways of thinking are being sought about the learning and agency of children and adults in relation to these environmental concerns The contributors to this book address the critically important dual challenge of making environmental education engaging while engaging individuals institutions and communities Rather than treating students and citizens as passive recipients of other people s knowledge the book highlights the importance of engaging learners as active agents in thinking about and constructing a more sustainable and equitable quality of life The case studies emphasize socio cultural approaches to environmental learning within and outside formal education in a diverse range of international contexts including Canada Denmark Korea the Netherlands South Africa Sweden the United Kingdom and the United States The authors not only illuminate the challenges and complexity of engaging youth and adults in meaningful learning as well as informed action on complex environmental issues but also document and offer important insights into promising ways in which these challenges might be addressed In addition to the many stimulating ideas and strategies for building the learning capacities of individuals and organizations for creating ecologically sustainable communities and societies further important questions are raised that educators policymakers and researchers might consider Saving The Planet By Design Ken Yeang,2019-10-08 Can we save the Planet For a resilient durable and sustainable future for human society we need to repurpose reinvent redesign remake and recover our human made world so that our built environment is benignly and seamlessly biointegrated with

Global Environmental Sustainability Choy Yee Keong, 2020-10-31 Global Environmental Sustainability Case Studies and Analysis of the United Nations Journey toward Sustainable Development presents an integrated interdisciplinary analysis of sustainable development addressing global environmental problems in the contemporary world. It critically examines current actions being taken on global and local scales particularly in relation to the UN's efforts to promote sustainable development. This approach is supported by empirical analysis drawing upon a host of interweaving insights spanning economics, politics, ecology, environmental philosophy, and ethics among others. As a result, it offers a comprehensive and well-balanced assessment of the overall perspective of sustainable development supported by in-depth content analysis, theoretical evaluation, empirical, and actual case studies premised on solid data and actual field work. Also, the book marks a milestone in placing the Covid-19 pandemic into a perspective for understanding the universality of human collective environmental behavior and action. By utilizing in-depth analysis, both quantitative and qualitative, and challenging the status quo of what is expected in the global approach to sustainable development, Global Environmental Sustainability provides the theory and methodology of empirical sustainable development, which is especially germane to our advanced society today, which is deeply entrenched in a crisis of environmental morality. More particularly, it serves as a salient source of moral reconstitution of society grounded in empirical reality to liberate man's excessive spirit of individualism and self-aggrandizement to the detriment of the environment. Epistemologically, the book furnishes a remarkable tour de force with a new level of analytical insight to help researchers, practitioners, and policymakers in sustainability and environmental science, as well as the many other disciplines involved in sustainable development, to better understand sustainability from a new perspective and provides a methodological direction to pursue solutions going forward. Provides a systematic exposition of sustainable development in all its complexity with all the chapters complementing each other in an integral way. Presents extensive empirical evidence of various environmental problems across the world, including China, the United States, Canada, Southeast Asia, South America, and Africa, and the extent to which the United Nations has succeeded in driving toward global environmental sustainability. Provides a cogent examination of the treatment of our global commons by some of the world's most powerful leaders. Includes data from field studies and in-depth interviews with indigenous people in Borneo's rainforests of the Malaysian state of Sarawak, most affected by environmental change.
