

Exercises 1 and 2

In this unit you will learn about Exercises 1 and 2, the two reading comprehension exercises in the IGCSE E2L examination, and practise the skills you need.

A

Introduction

What are Exercises 1 and 2?

Exercises 1 and 2 in both the Core and Extended papers assess reading comprehension. You need to read a text and answer questions which test your reading comprehension from skimming and reading for gist (understanding the main ideas) in Exercise 1 and more detailed understanding from scanning in Exercise 2.

You will see the text on the left-hand page, and the questions and answer lines on the opposite page. The number of marks available for each question is given at the end of the answer line. Exercise 2 includes a diagram or chart which will contain the answer to one of the questions.

Exercise 1

Read the following information about the sport of orienteering, and then answer the questions on the opposite page.

Orienteering – the path to adventure and fun

Orienteering developed in the 1930s in Sweden. It is a mixture of cross-country running and map reading in order to complete a fixed course in the quickest possible time. It spread slowly through Europe in the middle of the 1960s, and it was not until after the 1976 World Championships in Scotland that more and more people really began to enjoy it.

Different levels of activity

Orienteering is the ideal adventure sport for outdoor enthusiasts of all ages and abilities – both individuals and family groups. There is a variety of levels, with children as young as seven starting on simple sting-courses, where coloured tapes show the way. There is a range of courses, usually graded using colour codes based on length and difficulty. For example, a beginner's yellow course is fairly straightforward and around two kilometres long. The brown course is usually the most difficult and the longest course at eight kilometres or more.

(a) Where did orienteering originate?

[1]

(b) When did orienteering suddenly become popular in Europe?

[1]

(c) What helps to make the course easier for young children?

[1]

(d) What are the two reasons for colour-coding the courses?
