

One way poetry connects is across time. . . .
Some echo of a writer's physical experience comes into us when we read her poem.

Poetry in a Global Age Jahan Ramazani,2020-10-29 Ideas culture and capital flow across national borders with unprecedented speed but we tend not to think of poems as taking part in globalization Jahan Ramazani shows that poetry has much to contribute to understanding literature in an extra national frame Indeed the globality of poetry he argues stands to energize the transnational turn in the humanities Poetry in a Global Age builds on Ramazani s award winning A Transnational Poetics a book that had a catalytic effect on literary studies Ramazani broadens his lens to discuss modern and contemporary poems not only in relation to world literature war and questions of orientalism but also in light of current debates over ecocriticism translation studies tourism and cultural geography He offers brilliant readings of postcolonial poets like Agha

Shahid Ali Lorna Goodison and Daljit Nagra as well as canonical modernists such as W B Yeats Wallace Stevens T S Eliot and Marianne Moore Ramazani shows that even when poetry seems locally rooted its long memory of forms and words its connections across centuries continents and languages make it a powerful imaginative resource for a global age This book makes a strong case for poetry in the future development of world literature and global studies

Women, Epic, and Transition in British Romanticism Elisa Beshero-Bondar, 2011 Women Epic and Transition in British Romanticism argues that early nineteenth century women poets contributed some of the most daring work in modernizing the epic genre The book examines several long poems to provide perspective on women poets working with and against men in related efforts contributing together to a Romantic movement of large scale genre revision Women poets challenged longstanding categorical approaches to gender and nation in the epic tradition and they raised politically charged questions about women s importance in moments of historical crisis While Romantic epics did not all engage in radical questioning or undermining of authority this study calls attention to some of the more provocative poems in their approach to gender culture and history This study prioritizes long poems written by and about women during the Romantic era and does so in context with influential epics by male contemporaries The book takes its cue from a dramatic increase in the publication of epics in the early nineteenth century At their most innovative Romantic epics provoked questions about the construction of ideological meaning and historical memory and they centralized women s experiences in entirely new ways to reflect on defeat loss and inevitable transition For the first time the epic became an attractive genre for ambitious women poets The book offers a timely response to recent groundbreaking scholarship on nineteenth century epic by Herbert Tucker and Simon Dentith and should be of interest to Romanticists and scholars of 18th and 19th century literature and history gender and genre and women s studies

Utamakura, Allusion, and Intertextuality in Traditional Japanese Poetry Edward Kamens, Howard I. Kamens, 1997-01-01 Kamens focuses especially on one figure the buried tree which refers to fossilized wood associated in particular with an utamakura site the Natori River and is mentioned in poems that first appear in anthologies in the early tenth century The figure surfaces again at many points in the history of traditional Japanese poetry as do the buried trees themselves in the shallow waters that otherwise conceal them After explaining and discussing the literary history of the concept of utamakura Kamens traces the allusive and intertextual development of the figure of the buried tree and the use of the place name Natorigawa in waka poetry through the late nineteenth century He investigates the relationship between utamakura and the collecting of fetishes and curios associated with utamakura sites by waka connoisseurs

Love Poetry in the Spanish Golden Age Isabel Torres,2013 Love poetry in the Spanish Golden Age redefines the lyric poetry that is located at the centre of Imperial Spanish culture s own self image and self definition This work engages with a broader evaluation of early modern poetics that foregrounds the processes rather than the products of thinking The locus of the study is the Imperial home space where love poetry meets early modern empire at the inception of a very conflicted national consciousness and where the vernacular language Castilian emerges in the encounter as a strategic site of national and imperial identity The political is therefore a pervasive presence teased out where relevant in recognition of the poet's sensitivity to the ideologies within which writing comes into being But the primary commitment of the book is to lyric poetry and to poets individually and in their dynamic interconnectedness Moving beyond a re-evaluation of critical responses to four major poets of the period Garcilaso de la Vega Herrera Góngora and Quevedo this study disengages respectfully with the substantial body of biographical research that continues to impact upon our understanding of the genre and renegotiates the Foucauldian concept of the epistemic break often associated with the anti-mimetic impulses of the Baroque This more flexible model accommodates the multiperspectivism that interrogated Imperial ideology even in the earliest sixteenth century poetry and allows for the exploration of new horizons in interpretation Isabel Torres is Professor of Spanish Golden Age Literature and Head of Spanish and Portuguese Studies at Queen's University Belfast

Shelley's Music Paul A. Vatalaro, 2016-01-13 First published in 2009 This book argues that the images of and allusions to music in Shelley's writing demonstrate his attempt to infuse the traditionally masculine word with the traditionally feminine voice and music This further extends to his even more fundamental desire to integrate the object voice with his own subjectivity For Shelley what plagues this integration is the prospect of losing both the poet's authority and the subjectivity upon which it relies This book asserts that the resultant deadlock and instability paradoxically becomes Shelley's ultimate goal creating a steady state of suspension that finally preserves both his authority and his humanity

Littell's Living Age Eliakim Littell, Robert S. Littell, 1895

The Living Age, 1849

The Wireless Past Emily C. Bloom, 2016-11-08 The Oxford Mid-Century Studies series publishes monographs in several disciplinary and creative areas in order to create a thick description of culture in the thirty-year period around the Second World War With a focus on the 1930s through the 1960s the series concentrates on fiction poetry film photography theatre as well as art architecture design and other media The mid-century is an age of shifting groups and movements from existentialism through abstract expressionism to confessional serial electronic and pop art styles The series charts such intellectual movements even as it aids and abets the very best scholarly thinking about the power of art in a world under new techno-political compulsions whether nuclear apocalyptic Cold War propagandized transnational neo-imperial super-powered or postcolonial The Wireless Past chronicles the emergence of the British Broadcasting Corporation BBC as a significant promotional platform and aesthetic influence for Irish modernism from the 1930s to the 1960s This is the first book-length study of Irish literary broadcasting on the BBC and situates the works of W.B. Yeats Elizabeth Bowen Louis MacNeice and Samuel Beckett in the context of the media environments that shaped their works Drawing upon unpublished radio archives this book shows that radio broadcasting rather than prompting a break with literary history and traditional literary forms in fact served as an important means for reinterpreting the legacies of oral and print traditions In the years surrounding World War II radio came to be seen as a catalyst for literary revivals and simultaneously a force for experimentation This double valence of radio the conjoining of revivalism and experimentation create a distinctive radiogenic aesthetics in mid century modernism      British Poets of the Revolution Age William Clarke Robinson,1900      The Age of Beloveds Walter G.
