Senem Deviren, 2017-03-02 Contemporary architecture and the culture it reflects dependent as it is on fossil fuels has contributed to the cause and necessity of a burgeoning green process that emerged over the past half century This text is the first to offer a comprehensive critical history and analysis of the greening of architecture through accumulative reduction of negative environmental effects caused by buildings urban designs and settlements Describing the progressive development of green architecture from 1960 to 2010 it illustrates how it is ever evolving and ameliorated through alterations in form technology materials and use and it examines different places worldwide that represent a diversity of cultural and climatic contexts The book is divided into seven chapters with an overview of the environmental issues and the nature of green architecture in response to them followed by an historic perspective of the pioneering evolution of green technology and architectural integration over the past five decades and finally providing the intransigent and culturally pervasive current examples within a wide range of geographic territories The greening of architecture is seen as an evolutionary process that is informed by significant world events climate change environmental theories movements in architecture technological innovations and seminal works in architecture and planning throughout each decade over the past fifty years This time period is bounded on one end by the awareness of environmental problems beginning in the 1960 s the influential texts by Rachel Carson E F Schumacher Buckminster Fuller and Steward Brand and the impact of the OPEC Oil Embargo of 1973 and on the other end the pervasiveness of the necessary greening of architecture that includes systemic reforms in architectural and urban design land use planning transportation agriculture and energy production found in the 2000 s The greening process moves from remediation to holistic models of architecture Geographical landscapes give a global account of the greening process where some examples are parallel and sympathetic and others are in clear contrast to one another with very individuated approaches Certain events like the Rio Summit in 1992 and Kyoto Protocol in 1997 and themes such as the Hannover Principles in 2000 provide a dynamic ideological critique as well as a formal and technical discussion of the embodied and accumulative content of greening principles in architecture

Now Urbanism Jeffrey Hou, Benjamin Spencer, Thaisa Way, Ken Yocom, 2014-10-10 After more than a century of heroic urban visions urban dwellers today live in suburban subdivisions gated communities edge cities apartment towers and slums The contemporary cities we know are more often the embodiment of unexpected outcomes and unintended consequences rather than visionary planning As an alternative approach for rethinking and remaking today s cities and regions this book explores the intersections of critical inquiry and immediate substantive actions The contributions inside recognize the rich complexities of the present city not as barriers or obstacles but as grounds for uncovering opportunity and unleashing potential Now Urbanism asserts that the future city is already here It views city making as grounded in the imperfect messy yet rich reality of the existing city and the everyday purposeful agency of its dwellers Through a framework of situating grounding performing distributing instigating and enduring these contributions written by a multidisciplinary group of practitioners and scholars illustrate specificity context agency and networks of actors and actions in the re making of the contemporary city

Green Oslo Per

Gunnar Røe, 2016-04-22 As urban regions face the demand to decrease fossil fuel dependency many cities in the developing world are undertaking initiatives designed to create a greener city by aiming for a more sustainable form of urban development and to do so they need to evaluate existing modes of transportation and patterns of land use Focusing on Oslo an early leader in urban environmental policy making and a European green city award winner it argues that this evaluation must adopt and integrate two approaches firstly as a process of ecological modernization based on a combination of transit densification and mixed use development and secondly as an opportunity to reconsider the character and substance of the built environment as a reflection of natural values landscapes and natural resources of the wider region Environmental debate and concern is widespread in Oslo and this is reflected in its earlier planning decisions to leave intact large forest reserves its successful ecological restoration of the Oslo fjord the importance of outdoor culture among its residents the relatively progressive political agenda of Norway This book provides an opportunity for a critical assessment of the limitations and opportunities inherent in green Oslo and suggests the need for much broader integrative approaches It concludes by highlighting lessons which other cities might learn from Oslo Smart and Sustainable Cities and Buildings
