conditions for troubled schools reproduce racial inequalities Michaels centers her research in a suburban upstate New York high school serving mainly working class Black and Latinx students She reveals a new model of schooling based on testing and security regimes that expands the carceral state making the students feel dejected criminalized and suspicious of the system their peers and themselves Test Measure Punish offers a new theory of schooling inequality and shows in vivid detail why state led school reforms represent a new level of racialized citizenship in an already fragmented public education system
