Glass Houses Privacy Secrecy And Cyber Insecurity In A Transparent World:

Glass Houses Joel Brenner, 2013-08-27 A chilling and revelatory appraisal of the new faces of espionage and warfare on the digital battleground Shortly after 9 11 Joel Brenner entered the inner sanctum of American espionage first as the inspector general of the National Security Agency then as the head of counterintelligence for the director of National Intelligence He saw at close range the battleground on which adversaries are attacking us cyberspace Like the rest of us governments and corporations inhabit glass houses all but transparent to a new generation of spies who operate remotely from such places as China the Middle East Russia and even France In this urgent wake up call Brenner draws on his extraordinary background to show what we can and cannot do to prevent cyber spies and hackers from compromising our security and stealing our latest technology

Nuclear Deterrence in a Multipolar World Stephen J Cimbala, 2017-07-05 The view that America and Russia have burned their candles on security cooperation with respect to nuclear weapons is simply mistaken This timely study identifies twelve themes or issue areas that must be addressed by the United States and Russia if they are to provide shared successful leadership in the management of nuclear world order Designed as supplementary reading in upper division and graduate courses in national security policy defense and nuclear arms control it is also suitable for courses taught at military staff and command colleges and or war colleges

Optimizing Cyberdeterrence Robert Mandel, 2017-03-01 Cyberattacks are one of the greatest fears for governments and the private sector The attacks come without warning and can be extremely costly and embarrassing Robert Mandel offers a unique and comprehensive strategic vision for how governments in partnership with the private sector can deter cyberattacks from both nonstate and state actors Cyberdeterrence must be different from conventional military or nuclear deterrence which are mainly based on dissuading an attack by forcing the aggressor to face unacceptable costs In the cyber realm where attributing a specific attack to a specific actor is extremely difficult conventional deterrence principles are not enough Mandel argues that cyberdeterrence must alter a potential attacker s decision calculus by not only raising costs for the attacker but also by limiting the prospects for gain Cyberdeterrence must also involve indirect unorthodox restraints such as exposure to negative blowback and deceptive diversionary measures and cross domain measures rather than just retaliation in kind The book includes twelve twenty first century cyberattack case studies to draw insights into cyberdeterrence and determine the conditions under which it works most effectively Mandel concludes by making recommendations for implementing cyberdeterrence and integrating it into broader national security policy Cyber policy practitioners and scholars will gain valuable and current knowledge from this excellent study

Glass Houses Joel Brenner, 2013 America the Vulnerable Joel Brenner, 2011-09-29 Now available in a new edition entitled GLASS HOUSES Privacy Secrecy and Cyber Insecurity in a Transparent World A former top level National Security Agency insider goes behind the headlines to explore America's next great battleground digital security An urgent wake up call that identifies our foes unveils their methods and charts the dire consequences for government business and individuals Shortly after 9 11 Joel Brenner entered the inner sanctum of American espionage first as the inspector general of the National Security Agency then as the head of counterintelligence for the director of national intelligence He saw at close range the battleground on which our adversaries are now attacking us cyberspace We are at the mercy of a new generation of spies who operate remotely from China the Middle East Russia even France among many other places These operatives have already shown their ability to penetrate our power plants steal our latest submarine technology rob our banks and invade the Pentagon's secret communications systems Incidents like the WikiLeaks posting of secret U S State Department cables hint at the urgency of this problem but they hardly reveal its extent or its danger Our government and corporations are a glass house all but transparent to our adversaries Counterfeit computer chips have found their way into our fighter aircraft the Chinese stole a new radar system that the navy spent billions to develop our own soldiers used intentionally corrupted thumb drives to download classified intel from laptops in Iraq And much more Dispatches from the corporate world are just as dire In 2008 hackers lifted customer files from the Royal Bank of Scotland and used them to withdraw 9 million in half an hour from ATMs in the United States

Britain and Canada If that was a traditional heist it would be counted as one of the largest in history Worldwide corporations lose on average 5 million worth of intellectual property apiece annually and big companies lose many times that The structure and culture of the Internet favor spies over governments and corporations and hackers over privacy and we've done little to alter that balance Brenner draws on his extraordinary background to show how to right this imbalance and bring to cyberspace the freedom accountability and security we expect elsewhere in our lives In America the Vulnerable Brenner offers a chilling and revelatory appraisal of the new faces of war and espionage virtual battles with dangerous implications for government business and all of us

The Transparent Society David Brin, 1999-05-07 In New York and Baltimore police cameras scan public areas twenty four hours a day Huge commercial databases track your finances and sell that information to anyone willing to pay Host sites on the World Wide Web record every page you view and smart toll roads know where you drive Every day new technology nibbles at our privacy Does that make you nervous David Brin is worried but not just about privacy He fears that society will overreact to these technologies by restricting the flow of information frantically enforcing a reign of secrecy Such measures he warns won't really preserve our privacy Governments the wealthy criminals and the techno elite will still find ways to watch us But we'll have fewer ways to watch them We'll lose the key to a free society accountability The Transparent Society is a call for reciprocal transparency If police cameras watch us shouldn't we be able to watch police stations If credit bureaus sell our data shouldn't we know who buys it Rather than cling to an illusion of anonymity a historical anomaly given our origins in close knit villages we should focus on guarding the most important forms of privacy and preserving mutual accountability The biggest threat to our freedom Brin warns is that surveillance technology will be used by too few people now by too many A society of glass houses may seem too fragile Fearing technology aided crime governments seek to restrict online anonymity fearing technology aided tyranny citizens call for encrypting all data Brin shows how contrary to both approaches windows offer us much better protection than walls after all the strongest deterrent against snooping has always been the fear of being spotted Furthermore Brin argues Western culture now encourages eccentricity we're programmed to rebel That gives our society a natural protection against error and wrong doing like a body's immune system But social T cells need openness to spot trouble and get the word out The Transparent Society is full of such provocative and far reaching analysis The inescapable rush of technology is forcing us to make new choices about how we want to live This daring book reminds us that an open society is more robust and flexible than one where secrecy reigns In an era of gnat sized cameras universal databases and clothes penetrating radar it will be more vital than ever for us to be able to watch the watchers With reciprocal transparency we can detect dangers early and expose wrong doers We can gauge the credibility of pundits and politicians We can share technological advances and news But all of these benefits depend on the free two way flow of information
