Playing the Marginality Game Anita Schroven, 2019-03-27 In Guinea situated against the background of central government struggles rural elites use identity politics through contemporary political reforms to maintain their privileges and perpetuate a generations old local social contract that bridges ethnic and religious divides Simultaneously administrative reform and national unrest lead to the creative re combination of sources of authority and practices of legitimate rule Past periods of colonization socialism and authoritarian regime are reflected in contemporary struggles to make sense of participatory democracy and the future of the embattled Guinean national state

Sonic Circulations Emily I. Dolan, Emily MacGregor, Arman Schwartz, 2025-08-05 The role music sound and voice played in modern knowledge production in the early twentieth century Derived from the Latin words circum round and ire to go a circuit can refer to any bounded area For contemporary readers it might evoke the course of an electric current as well as the flow of global capital Yet sound an inherently temporal phenomenon can only circulate in mediated forms Tracing the pathways through and by which sound traveled in the early twentieth century Sonic Circulations not only proposes a new account of the role of music sound and voice in modern knowledge production but also poses urgent questions about technology and empire while also foregrounding the tensions and paradoxes involved in situating the sonic within any fixed regime or system Exploring key moments in the development of disciplines including linguistics sociology and eugenics as well as musicology itself Sonic Circulations explores the many ways that sound has functioned as evidence and information as both an object and an agent of scientific mastery Contributors explore the processes by which sound has moved through a variety of conceptual as well as physical domains highlighting the richness of historical contingency This volume shows that circulation happened in many spaces and through many technologies through sound recording but also through the trade magazine and in the classroom through wireless broadcasting and international festivals but also in the cozy spaces of the suburban home Featuring scholars working at the borders of musicology ethnomusicology sound studies and music theory this volume's ten chapters and two epilogues illuminate an alternative genealogy of modernism emphasizing the embeddedness of even the most abstract practices in the structures of imperial modernity Contributors Peter Asimov Andrea F Bohlman Harriet Boyd Bennett Alexander W Cowan Emily I Dolan John Gabriel Jonathan Hicks Alexandra Kieffer Gundula Kreuzer Deirdre Loughridge Emily MacGregor Giles Masters Arman Schwartz Danielle Simon John Tresch

The Religious Lives of Older Laywomen Abby Day, 2017 The Religious Lives of Older Laywomen draws on ethnographic fieldwork cross cultural comparisons and relevant theories exploring the beliefs identities and practices of Generation A Anglican laywomen born in the 1920s and 1930s Now in their 70s 80s and 90s they are often described as the backbone of the Church and likely its final active generation The prevalence of laywomen in mainstream Christian congregations is a widely accepted phenomenon that will cause little surprise amongst the research community or Christian adherents What is surprising is that we know so little about them Generation A laywomen have remained largely invisible in previous work on institutional religion in Euro American countries particularly as the focus on religion and gender has turned to youth sexuality and priesthood Female Christian Generation A is on the cusp of a catastrophic decline in mainstream Christianity that accelerated during the post war post 1945 age The age profile of mainstream Christianity represents an increasingly aging pattern with Generation A not being replaced by their children or grandchildren the Baby Boomers and generations X Y and Z Generation A is irreplaceable and unique Generation shares specific values beliefs behaviors and orientations therefore when this generation finally disappears within the next five to 10 years their knowledge insights and experiences will be lost forever Abby Day both documents and interprets their religious lives and what we can learn about them and more widely about contemporary Christianity and its future

Engineering Vulnerability Sarah E. Vaughn, 2022-02-07 In Engineering Vulnerability Sarah E Vaughn examines climate adaptation against the backdrop of ongoing processes of settler colonialism and the global climate change initiatives that seek to intervene in the lives of the world's most vulnerable Her case study is Guyana in the aftermath of the 2005 catastrophic flooding that ravaged the country's Atlantic coastal plain The country's ensuing engineering projects reveal the contingencies of climate adaptation and the capacity of flooding to shape Guyanese expectations about racial inequality. Analyzing the coproduction of race and vulnerability, Vaughn details why climate adaptation has implications for how we understand the past and the continued human settlement of a place. Such understandings become particularly apparent not only through experts' and ordinary citizens' disputes over resources but in their attention to the ethical practice of technoscience over time. Approaching climate adaptation this way, Vaughn exposes the generative openings as well as gaps in racial thinking for theorizing climate action, environmental justice, and more broadly, future life on a warming planet. Food in Cuba Hanna Garth, 2023-05-25 Garth's in-depth and intimate ethnography portrays the shortcomings in Cuba's welfare system and the profound consequences for the way people eat. Megan A. Carney, author of The Unending Hunger. Food in Cuba follows Cuban families as they struggle to maintain a decent quality of life in Cuba's faltering post-Soviet welfare state by looking at the social and emotional dimensions of food access. Based on extensive fieldwork with families in Santiago de Cuba, Hanna Garth examines Cuban families' attempts to acquire and assemble a decent meal, unraveling the household dynamics, community interactions, and individual reflections on everyday life in today's Cuba. With the collapse of the Soviet Union in the 1990s, Cuba lost its most significant trade partner. Although trade agreements have improved the quantity and quality of rationed food in Cuba, many Cubans still report living with food shortages and economic hardship. Garth tells the stories of families that face the daily challenge of acquiring not only enough food but food that meets personal and cultural standards. She argues that these ongoing struggles produce what the Cuban families describe as a change in character and that for some, this shifting concept of self leads to a transformation of Cuban identity. Downtown Ladies Gina A. Ulysse, 2008-09-15 The Caribbean market woman is ingrained in the popular imagination as the archetype of black womanhood in countries throughout the region. Challenging this stereotype and other outdated images of black women, Downtown Ladies offers a more complex picture by documenting the history of independent international traders known as informal commercial importers or ICIs who travel abroad to import and export a vast array of consumer goods sold in the public markets of Kingston, Jamaica. Both by products of and participants in globalization, ICIs operate on multiple levels and, since their emergence in the 1970s, have made significant contributions to the regional, national, and global economies. Gina Ulysse carefully explores how ICIs determined to be self-employed struggle with government regulation and other social tensions to negotiate their autonomy. Informing this story of self-fashioning with reflections on her own experience as a young Haitian anthropologist, Ulysse combines the study of political economy with the study of individual and collective identity to reveal the uneven consequences of disrupting traditional class, color, and gender codes in individual societies and around the world. Islands of Sovereignty Jeffrey S. Kahn, 2019-01-03 In Islands of Sovereignty, anthropologist and legal scholar Jeffrey S. Kahn offers a new interpretation of the transformation of US borders during the late twentieth century and its implications.

for our understanding of the nation state as a legal and political form Kahn takes us on a voyage into the immigration tribunals of South Florida the Coast Guard vessels patrolling the northern Caribbean and the camps of Guantamo Bay once the world's largest US operated migrant detention facility to explore how litigation concerning the fate of Haitian asylum seekers gave birth to a novel paradigm of offshore oceanic migration policing Combining ethnography in Haiti at Guantamo and alongside US migration patrols in the Caribbean with in depth archival research Kahn expounds a nuanced theory of liberal empire's dynamic tensions and its racialized geographies of securitization An innovative historical anthropology of the modern legal imagination Islands of Sovereignty forces us to reconsider the significance of the rise of the current US immigration border and its relation to broader shifts in the legal infrastructure of contemporary nation states across the globe

Dreams of Presence Mitch Rose, 2024-11-30 Throughout the twentieth century the question of culture was a central pillar of social scientific thought Today however the concept has disappeared from the academic landscape Despite pressing political debates about culture wars identity politics cultural appropriation and nativism the concept of culture is no longer seen as a credible explanatory tool Dreams of Presence provides a novel theoretical approach to the question of culture and will be of use to geographers anthropologists sociologists and social theorists grappling to understand why culture continues to be a dominant political force in our contemporary world Drawing on Heidegger Levinas Derrida and i ek Mitch Rose provides an existential rather than sociological account of culture conceptualizing it as a refuge where subjects endeavour to establish ownership over a life that perpetually eludes them The book argues that culture is a claim not something subjects ever have but something they desire not something properly present but a dream of presence an imagination of identity we cultivate care for and materially build in order to assure ourselves that we are sovereign self standing beings

Working Skin Joseph D. Hankins, 2014-07-26 Since the 1980s arguments for a multicultural Japan have gained considerable currency against an entrenched myth of national homogeneity Working Skin enters this conversation with an ethnography of Japan's Buraku people Touted as Japan's largest minority the Buraku are stigmatized because of associations with labor considered unclean such as leather and meat production That labor however is vanishing from Japan Liberalized markets have sent these jobs overseas and changes in family and residential record keeping have made it harder to track connections to these industries Multiculturalism as a project of managing difference comes into ascendancy and relief just as the labor it struggles to represent is disappearing Working Skin develops this argument by exploring the interconnected work of tanners in Japan Buraku rights activists and their South Asian allies as well as cattle ranchers in West Texas United Nations officials and international NGO advocates Moving deftly across these engagements Joseph Hankins analyzes the global political and economic demands of the labor of multiculturalism Written in accessible prose this book speaks to larger theoretical debates in critical anthropology Asian and cultural studies and examinations of liberalism and empire and it will appeal to audiences interested in social movements stigmatization and the overlapping circulation of language politics and capital

Corruption and the Secret of Law Gerhard Anders, 2017-10-24 This volume presents an anthropological perspective on the hidden continuities between corruption and law. The authors argue that the two opposites corruption and law are inextricably linked with the possibility of the former already inscribed into the latter. Taking a critical stance towards the normative good governance agenda spearheaded by institutions such as Transparency International and the World Bank, this volume argues that by uncritically depicting corruption as an absolute evil, these anti-corruption programs disregard the close relationship that exists between corruption and state power. Addressing various aspects of a complex and ambivalent phenomenon, Corruption and the Secret of Law draws on studies from different parts of the world including Burundi, China, Indonesia, Italy, Japan, Mexico, and the USA and provides a valuable resource for students, researchers, and policy makers working in this area.

Food and Identity in the Caribbean Hanna Garth, 2013-07-18 This compelling volume brings together original essays that explore the relationship between food and identity in everyday life in the Caribbean. The Caribbean history of colonialism and migration has fostered a dynamic and diverse form of modernity which continues to transform with the impact of globalization and migration out of the Caribbean. One of the founders of the anthropology of food, Richard Wilk, provides a preface to this exciting and interdisciplinary collection of essays offering insight into the real issues of food politics which contribute to the culinary cultures of the Caribbean. Based on rich contemporary ethnographies, the volume reveals the ways in which food carries symbolic meanings which are incorporated into the many different facets of identity experienced by people in the Caribbean. Many of the chapters focus on the ways in which consumers align themselves with particular foods as a way of making claims about their identities. Development and political and economic changes in the Caribbean bring new foods to the contemporary dinner table, a phenomenon that may subsequently destabilize the foundations of culinary identities. Food and Identity in the Caribbean reveals the ways in which some of the connections between food and identity persist against the odds whilst in other contexts new relationships between food and identity are forged.

The Battle for Fortune Charlene Makley, 2018-05-15 Based on long-term fieldwork in a rural Tibetan region in China's northwest, 2002-13, The Battle for Fortune is an ethnography of state-local relations among Tibetans marginalized under China's Great Development West campaign and during the 2008 military crackdown on Tibetan unrest. The study brings anthropological approaches to states and development into dialogue with recent interdisciplinary debates about the very nature of human subjectivity and relations with nonhuman others, including deities.

Enchantments of Modernity Saurabh Dube, 2020-08-11 The notion of modernity hinges on a break with the past, such as superstitions, medieval worlds, and hierarchical traditions. It follows that modernity suggests the disenchantment of the world, yet the processes of modernity also create their own enchantments in the mapping and making of the modern world. Straddling a range of disciplines and perspectives, the essays in this edited volume eschew programmatic solutions focusing instead in new ways on subjects of slavery and memory global transformations and vernacular and vernacular modernity imperial imperatives and nationalist knowledge cosmopolitan politics and liberal democracy and governmental effects and everyday affects It is in these ways that the volume attempts to unravel the enchantments of modernity in order to approach anew modernity's constitutive terms formative limits and particular possibilities

The Cooking of History Stephan Palmié, 2013-06-14 Over a lifetime of studying Cuban Santería and other religions related to Orisha worship a practice also found among the Yoruba in West Africa Stephan Palmié has grown progressively uneasy with the assumptions inherent in the very term Afro-Cuban religion In The Cooking of History he provides a comprehensive analysis of these assumptions in the process offering an incisive critique both of the anthropology of religion and of scholarship on the cultural history of the Afro-Atlantic World Understood largely through its rituals and ceremonies Santería and related religions have been a challenge for anthropologists to link to a hypothetical African past But Palmié argues precisely by relying on the notion of an aboriginal African past and by claiming to authenticate these religions via their findings anthropologists some of whom have converted to these religions have exerted considerable influence upon contemporary practices Critiquing widespread and damaging simplifications that posit religious practices as stable and self-contained Palmié calls for a drastic new approach that properly situates cultural origins within the complex social environments and scholarly fields in which they are investigated

Critique of Authenticity Thomas Claviez, Kornelia Imesch, Britta Sweers, 2020-01-10 The volume provides a critical assessment of the concept of authenticity and gauges its role significance and shortcomings in a variety of disciplinary contexts Many of the contributions communicate with each other and thus acknowledge the enormous significance of this politically morally philosophically and economically charged concept that at the same time harbors dangerous implications and has been critically deconstructed The volume shows that the alleged need or desire for authenticity is alive and kicking but oftentimes comes at a high price connected to a culture of experts authority and exclusionary strategies

Visuality/Materiality Divya P. Tolia-Kelly, 2016-02-11 Two of the key theoretical shifts over the past two decades of critical work have been the visual turn and the material turn This book argues that these hitherto distinct fields should be understood as in continual dialogue and co-constitution and focuses on reconceptualising the visual as an embodied material and often politically charged realm This edited volume elaborates this conceptual argument through a series of contemporary case studies drawn from the disciplines of Architecture Sociology Media Studies Geography and Cultural Studies The case studies included are paired around four themes consumption translation practice and ethics As well as exploring the bringing together of visuality and materiality studies the contributors raise questions of social identity and social critique and also focus on the ethics of material visualities
