The background of the entire image is a reproduction of Eugène Delacroix's famous 1830 painting, 'Liberty Leading the People'. It depicts a revolutionary scene with a woman (Marianne) personifying Liberty, leading a diverse group of revolutionaries and citizens. She carries the French tricolor flag and holds a Phrygian cap. They are fighting against soldiers and a lion, which is a symbol of the Bourbon monarchy. The scene is set in a city street with smoke and the chaos of battle.

Théodore Rousseau and the Rise of the Modern Art Market Simon Kelly, 2021-03-25 The 19th century in France witnessed the emergence of the structures of the modern art market that remain until this day This book examines the relationship between the avant-garde Barbizon landscape painter Théodore Rousseau 1812-1867 and this market exploring the constellation of patrons art dealers and critics who surrounded the artist It argues for the pioneering role of Rousseau his patrons and his public in the origins of the modern art market and in so doing shifts attention away from the more traditional focus on the novel careers of the Impressionists and their supporters Drawing on extensive archival research the book provides new insight into the role of the modern artist as professional It provides a new understanding of the complex iconographical and formal choices within Rousseau s work rediscovering the original radical charge that once surrounded the artist s work and led to extensive and peculiarly modern tensions with the market place

Delacroix's Moroccans Jennifer Olmsted, 2025-04-08 The Women of Algiers in Their Apartment is arguably Eugène Delacroix s best known work from his trip to Morocco in 1832 and the attention scholars have paid to it has obscured a crucial fact about Delacroix s Moroccan subjects most of his paintings of North Africa depict men rather than women After serving as a diplomat s companion on a mission to Morocco Delacroix went on to devote over three quarters of his massive North African oeuvre to the military prowess effective leadership equestrian virtuosity and elegant dress of Moroccan men Using the evidence of his writings sketches and paintings Olmsted argues that rather than embodying a typical colonialist fantasy Delacroix s paintings of Moroccan men instead show his subjects as models of heroic masculinity and political sovereignty a position that ran counter to prevailing French attitudes toward North Africans In this way Delacroix s Moroccans intervenes in the discourse of imperialism to examine the multiple heterogeneous features of cultural response and provides nuanced readings of the artist s work that support the idea that European constructions of non European cultures were not monolithic Olmsted s multifaceted analysis creates a powerful and original understanding of Delacroix s Moroccan oeuvre and a counternarrative to the colonialist imagery of his era Through close attention to Delacroix s paintings drawings and writings as well as their historical and political contexts this book illuminates the artist s practice and offers a fresh avenue for assessing colonialism and art produced within colonial contexts The Société des Trois in the Nineteenth Century Melissa Berry, 2017-12-14 This book reframes the formative years of three significant artists Henri Fantin Latour Alphonse Legros and James McNeill Whistler The trio s coming together as the Société des trois occurred during the emergence of the artistic avant garde a movement toward individualism and self expression Though their oeuvres appear dissimilar it is imperative that the three artists early work and letters be viewed in light of the Société as it informed many of their decisions in both London and Paris Each artist actively cultivated a translocal presence creating artistic networks that transcended national borders Thus this book will serve as a comprehensive resource on the development production implications and eventual end of the Société Looking at Men Anthea Callen, 2018-01-01 Beginning in 1800 Looking at Men explores how the modern male body was forged through the intimately linked professions of art and medicine which deployed muscular models and martial arts to renew the beau idéal This ideal of the virile body derived from the athletic perfection found in the classical male nude The study of human anatomy and dissection in both art and medicine underpinned a modern gladiatorial ideal its representations setting the parameters not just of normal virile masculinity but also its abject other Through the shared violence of human dissection and martial arts male artists and medics secured their professional privilege and authority on the bodies of roughs First and foremost visual this process has literary parallels in Frankenstein and Jekyll and Hyde While embodying signs of dominant power and signalling differences of race class gender and sexuality the virile masculine ideal contained its shadow the threat of loss of a Darwinian degeneration that required vigilant intervention to ensure the health of nations Anthea Callen's lively and intelligent study casts a new eye on contributions by many lesser known artists as well as more familiar works by Gericault Courbet Delacroix and Bazille through to Eakins Thornycroft Leighton and Tonks and includes images that draw on photography and the popular visual cultures of boxing wrestling and bodybuilding Callen reassesses ideas of the modern male body and virile manhood in this exploration of the heteronormative the homosocial and the homoerotic in art anatomy and nascent anthropology

Re-framing the Italian Renaissance at the National Gallery, 1824 - 2014 Harriet O'Neill (1980 - 2023), 2025-04-07 This pioneering study examines how Italian Renaissance painting has been physically and conceptually framed and re framed at the National Gallery London from its foundation in 1824 to the present day Harriet O'Neill's research focuses primarily on historic historicising and Neo Renaissance picture frames while considering the changing appearance of the physical gallery spaces as a wider conceptual frame Through six chapters the author identifies the varied roles frames and framing have played in mediating the entry of Italian Renaissance panels into the museum environment Chapter 1 situates the research within broader theoretical frameworks bringing together literature on frames with conceptualisations of museums decorative arts and museological constructions of the Renaissance Chapters 2 and 3 examine the motivations for re framing Renaissance panels under the Gallery's first Director Sir Charles Eastlake and his Keeper Ralph Nicholson Wornum exploring the connection between Neo Renaissance frames and visitor experience alongside art historical practice Chapter 4 analyses frames modelled on the portal ornament of the Venetian church of San Giobbe commissioned under the Gallery's third Director Sir Frederic Burton comparing them with the widely deployed Watts frames Chapter 5 discusses the collection and adaptation of antique frames contextualising this within international museological approaches pioneered in Berlin Chapter 6 charts the recent re framing of Italian Renaissance art at the National Gallery particularly in the Sainsbury Wing considering the types of narratives communicated to visitors through framing decisions This study reveals how re framing has transformed dislocated panels into both art historical specimens and works for aesthetic pleasure while engaging with the establishment of the Renaissance artistic canon and making controversial works more acceptable to English taste
