Installing Utilities and Drivers

Dell provides software utilities and drivers that help you control certain features of your computer.

This document explains how to install utilities and drivers on your Dell portable computer with the Microsoft® Windows® 95 operating system. You may need to use this document under the following conditions:

- Dell did not install an operating system or other system software on your computer.
- You are reinstalling the version of Windows 95 that came with your computer, and you need to reinstall the drivers and utilities that Dell provides.

NOTE: To reinstall the operating system, you need the Windows 95 installation CD-ROM that came with your computer.

- Some of the drivers and/or utilities that came with your computer are corrupted, and you need to reinstall them individually.
- You have a new hard-disk drive, and you need to install all of the system software.

In any case, you must use the program diskette set you made when you received your computer. If you did not make a program diskette set and you cannot access the Dell Program Diskette Maker in the Dell Accessories folder, you can order a program diskette set separately from Dell. See "Contacting Dell," found later in this document, or Chapter 5, "Getting Help," in your Dell Inspiron Reference and Troubleshooting Guide for more information.

Installing Video Drivers

Video drivers control features such as screen resolution and the number of screen colors.

NOTE: If you need to use extended video modes, check the documentation that accompanied the application program to determine if the drivers are provided. If not, contact the software manufacturer to get the necessary drivers.

To install the video drivers, follow these steps:

1. Save your work in all open application programs, because you will need to restart your computer at the end of this procedure to complete the installation.
2. Insert the Video Drivers diskette into the diskette drive.
3. Click the Start button, point to Settings, and then click Control Panel.
The Control Panel window appears.
4. Double-click the Display icon.
The Display Properties window appears.
5. Click the Settings tab.
6. Click the Advanced Properties button.
The Advanced Display Properties window appears.
7. In the Adapter Type box, click the Change... button.
The Select Device window appears.
8. Click the Have Disk... button.
